TRAIN SET AFIRE WHEN GAS TRUCK HIT

Bill Stoughton Named
New Manager of C of C

William Stoughton will be the manager of the Chamber of Commerce here after this week.
He is to take the place of Glen Allen, who is to leave here Sunday for Leaksville, N. C., to become manager of the Tri-City Chamber of Commerce with headquarters there.
Stoughton, a native of Centerville in Knox County, has lived in Washington C. H. for the last six years and through his work and participation in community affairs has made many friends.
He came here first, soon after his graduation from Watchmaker's School in 1949, and took a position with the Schorr Jewelry Store.
Two years later, he took a position of sales tax examiner for the Ohio Department of Taxation and remained in that work until he resigned Tuesday to accept the position with the Chamber of Commerce.

HE COMMENTED Wednesday morning that his experience in these two positions had given him an opportunity to meet many people of the community and give him a better understanding of the business problems of the community. His record shows he had received seven salary increases in the four and a half years he has been with the Tax Department—and that was considered by the committee as a substantial recommendation in itself.

He has been active in the American Legion, serving as post commander here, Fayette County commander, division commander of three counties and is now vice commander of this seventh 8-county district. He also is a member of the Elks Lodge and is now serving it as esteemed leading knight.
Stoughton, who is now 31 years old and at the present time single, enlisted in the Navy following his graduation from high school in 1942 and served 13 months overseas and before he was sent back to the United States for officer training.

WHILE IN Navy he attended Princeton University, Bowling Green State College and the University of Cincinnati.

There is an old saying, with a great deal of truth in it, that "we all have our ups and downs in life."
All of which reminds me of the elevator which is so popular in the Fayette County Court House.
Recently, I noted that about every time I pushed the elevator button on the ground floor, the elevator was on the second floor, and if I pushed the button on the second floor, the elevator was on the ground floor.
In making a check-up, I discovered that 12 times out of 15 when I wanted the elevator at the ground floor, it was on the second floor, and 13 times out of 15 when I wanted the elevator on the second floor, it was on the ground level floor.
However, it is much easier to wait the 15 or 20 seconds it requires for the automatic elevator to move two floors, than it is to walk up or down the two flights of steps as I have done many thousands of times over a period of years.

Ike Chalks Up
Edge Over Adlai
In Illinois Poll

Kefauver's Write-In Effort Fails To Yield
Very Much Support

CHICAGO (AP)—President Eisenhower moved ahead of Adlai F. Stevenson today in returns from the Illinois presidential preference primary.

Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, making a write-in bid, was left far behind in the election year popularity contest.

Eisenhower, who took almost 55 per cent of the Illinois vote in his duel with Stevenson in the 1952 presidential election, passed Stevenson in the count of ballots in midmorning.

Returns from 8,797 of the state's 9,511 precincts in Eisenhower's race against the nominal opposition of Sen. William F. Knowland and Lar Daly on the Republican side gave Eisenhower 679,891, Knowland 30,620 and Daly 8,783.

Reports from 3,826 of the 4,511 downstate precincts gave Eisenhower 423,880.

STEVENS ON WAS the only contender listed on the Democratic ballot, but Sen. Kefauver received write-in support.

Returns from 8,470 precincts gave Stevenson 671,237. Kefauver had 26,306 write-ins in 7,757 precincts.

Returns from 3,613 of the 4,511 downstate precincts gave Eisenhower 402,047.

Returns from 3,325 downstate precincts gave Stevenson 180,653.

This time the President had an advantage of around 2 to 1 over Stevenson in the downstate area, where Illinois farmers voted in a primary widely watched for their reaction to the Eisenhower administration's farm program.

Cook County returns almost complete, gave Stevenson the advantage by about 2 to 1.

Eisenhower carried Illinois in the 1952 general election, receiving nearly 55 per cent of the total vote to Stevenson's slightly over 45 per cent.

Neither was on the printed ballot for the state's primary in 1952, but Eisenhower got 147,518 write-ins to Stevenson's 54,336. Kefauver was unopposed in the Democratic primary of 1952 and polled 526,301 votes. The late Sen. Robert Taft of Ohio was the GOP winner with 935,867.

The Kefauver write-in vote this year fell far short of expectations. His supporters had expressed hope for receiving 10 percent of the Democratic vote. He received less than 4 per cent.

This was Stevenson's best primary showing. He stressed the importance of his endorsement by the homefolks, especially after his setback at the hands of Kefauver in Minnesota last month.

THE PRIMARY actually is just a popularity contest; the results are not binding on the state's delegates to the national nominating conventions.

Republican Gov. William G. Stratton, who won renomination with ease, was enthused over the downstate vote for Eisenhower.

"If there had been any defection on the farm issue in downstate Illinois," he said, "you wouldn't have that great vote for President Eisenhower."

Democrats chose Herbert C. Paschen, Cook County treasurer, to oppose Stratton for governor in the November general election.

There have been only a few scattered write-in votes reported for Democratic Gov. Frank Lausche of Ohio. None has been tabulated.

Ike Plans Work,
Then More Golf

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—President Eisenhower arranged another work session today on domestic affairs and international problems. And he hoped to play some more golf.

The President planned to sign some domestic bills passed by Congress, get from Washington the latest reports on efforts to halt strife in the Middle East, then turn to golf.

The President flew here from Washington Monday for a week of relaxation combined with work.

Egyptians Talk
To Peacemakers

Trip To Jordan
Next On Schedule

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—Dag Hammarskjold talked with Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt for 75 minutes today in his first major move to restore peace between Israel and its Arab neighbors.

As the U. N. secretary general began his talks with the strong man of the Arab nations, a Jerusalem dispatch reported an easing of tensions in Palestine.

The dispatch reported only two minor attacks last night by roving Arab suicide squads which had struck in a series of raids and sabotage missions on the three previous nights.

"I HAVE NOTHING to say to the press," Hammarskjold said, "but I certainly expect to meet Prime Minister Nasser again."

The U. N. secretary general was accompanied by Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns, Canadian chief of the U. N. truce commissions.

THEY PLAN to fly on later this week to Tel Aviv and the capitals of Jordan, Syria, and Lebanon for more conferences.

Burns' plea last week for a cease-fire along the flaming Israeli borders had failed to halt the outbreaks.

Israel charged Arab suicide squads trained in sabotage by Egyptian army officers had struck deep within southern Israel for four straight nights.

The Israelis said the roving commandos, called Fedayeen, had killed 6 and wounded 24 Jews. Israel's patrols pressing a mop-up of the roving bands reported they had killed 13 and captured 6 Fedayeen.

Egypt charged an Israeli plane had flown over the Egyptian-held Gaza strip and an Israeli army patrol had raided in Gaza.

Israel was pessimistic about Hammarskjold's peace efforts. The political committee of the nine-nation Arab League, meeting in Cairo, urged all Arab states to cooperate with the U. N. peacemaker. The league's council to date received the political committee's recommendation.

In the Syrian capital of Damascus, the heads of two Arab states pledged before the tomb of Sultan Saladin to devote "all our powers for the defense of the Holy Land."

With clasped hands, youthful King Hussein of Jordan and President Shukri Kuwayti of Syria vowed "to defend the Holy Land and Arab nations with all our power."

Saladin was the 13th century Moslem defender of Jerusalem and conqueror of the Crusaders.

NEW YORK (AP)—Comedian Fred Allen left half his estimated $1 million estate to his widow, as well as the income from the other half. He died of a heart attack March 17 at the age of 61.

No Troop Call Seen In Offing

WASHINGTON (AP)—Officials discounted today the likelihood of President Eisenhower's asking Congress for authority to use U. S. armed forces in the Middle East unless the Israeli-Arab conflict grows more critical.

They said, however, that with border clashes and retaliatory attacks building up as they have been the situation could become extremely grave in a matter of hours.

American officials said the major administration effort now is to prevent that kind of crisis from developing by using every resource of diplomacy.

The purpose behind Eisenhower's statement on Monday warning against aggression by either side was described as being to back up the peace mission of United Nations Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold.

The possibility of a request by Eisenhower for congressional approval of the use of American forces in event of Middle East war was discussed yesterday when Secretary of State Dulles met with congressional leaders. Several

Fayette County Girl
Wins Science Award

SHARON LOU SMITH and her prize winning science exhibit, "Wonders of the Earth and Sea." Sharon won first place with the exhibit in the four-county science awards competition at Middletown Tuesday afternoon.

Sharon Lou Smith, 14-year old eighth grader at Wilson School, has had a busy and productive week.

Last Saturday, Sharon quietly outspelled boys and girls from all parts of the county and spelled herself into the Fayette County championship of the Columbus Citizen-sponsored spelling bee.

And Tuesday, unflustered by the earlier award, the young lady went to Middletown for the regional finals of the annual science awards competition and calmly walked away with the first place award in the general science division.

And for Sharon, this is only the beginning—for now she has to represent the county in higher rounds of each competition.

"We're pretty proud of her," Wilson School principal Wilson Webb said Wednesday morning, adding "she's a good all-round student, and the fact that she won doesn't really surprise us at all."

Her mother, Mrs. Gene Smith of the Circleview Road when telling of her daughter's triumphs, just smiled.

Sharon received the honor of representing the school at the science show by winning the general science division of the County science show, sponsored by Arco steel here last week. She, along with all the winners from the city and county here—represented this area at the semi-finals in Middletown.

"WONDERS of the Earth and Sea" was the title of Sharon's prize-winning exhibit. The display included a five-by-three foot table filled with samples of some of nature's more marvelous specimens, all labeled and explained for viewers.

Another county competitor, Linda Hidy of 153 1/2 South Fayette Street took a third place in the biology section of the Middletown show, Linda, a 17-year old senior at Washington C. H. High School exhibited a display on "Animal of the Paleozoic Era."

Both Sharon and Linda will go to Cincinnati April 20 for the finals competition, between winners of the Middletown show and winners of a similar show to be held in the Cincinnati area.

A $25 defense bond will go to Sharon for winning the regional competition, and another will go to her school. For winning the contest here, she and the school each received $10.

Linda will receive $10 in cash for her prize, and a similar gift will go to her school, too.

There's a $50 prize in store for Sharon if she can take top honors in Cincinnati. In Linda's division, and in all other divisions except Sharon's prizes run into the big money—college scholarships and the like.

A total of 21 students went from this area to the regional competition. Besides Sharon and Linda, they were:

Chemistry — James C. Armour, Washington C. H.; Eldon Smith and Stanley Hannah Jeffersonville and Ronnie Lanton and Stanley Smith, Wayne.

Physics — Hugh Lentz, Robert Crouse, Thomas Mann and Robert Mitchum, Washington C. H., and David Morrow, Jeffersonville.

Biology — Mary N. Hackett, Washington C. H. and Charles Newman, Wayne.

Engineering — Robert Montgomery and Ronnie McCray, Washington C. H. and Robert Belt, Madison Mills.

General Science — Gayle Morrow, Donald Baird, Carolyn Ritenour and Russel Mason, Jeffersonville.

COMPARED TO the science show award, Sharon's championship in the spelling bee was practically Taxpayer Sends In

$3,900 In Secret

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Internal Revenue Service has received $3,900 from Chicago, apparently mailed by a taxpayer with a troubled conscience.

The money, 30 bank notes of $100 each, was in a plain brown manila envelope, with no accompanying note. On the back of the envelope was a return address reading:

I. O. Thinsmuck,
925 Chybourne Ave.
Chicago.

The revenue service said there was no such address in Chicago.

Softened Water
Now Used Here

Increase In Rates
To Be on Next Bills

Softened water from the new plant is now coming out of the faucets in most of the homes in Washington C. H. and, after the terminal hydrants are flushed, it will be flowing through the pipes all over the city.

Water being used is first pumped into the reservoir and, as the supply in the reservoir is lowered, it will be replenished from Paint Creek as long as there is water in the stream.

The old water was 23 to 26 grains of hardness, and the new water, according to Supt. Emerson Warner, will be 6 grains hardness.

Absolute softness is zero, which can only be obtained by private softening units which remove most or all of the remaining 6 grains, it is understood.

The degree of softness here is about the same as in other municipal plants in the country, it was said.

The new billing of the Ohio Water Co. which will be as of April 20 readings, will include the 30 percent of the total 35 percent increase in rates. The first 5 percent of the total 35 percent increase agreed upon by the city when negotiations were underway for building the new water works system here went into effect several weeks ago.

The new pumping, filtration and softening plant all under one roof, is located 200 yards north of the old pumping station and well above high water mark.

Sufficient equipment will be maintained in the old pumping plant to furnish the city with water in case the new plant should suffer a breakdown.

Machinery in the old plant is being shifted about, and the outside pumping plant which has been in use for taking water from Paint Creek and pumping it into the reservoir, is being moved into the old plant. Since it was set up temporarily it has been located outside of the old plant at the edge of the reservoir back of the dam in Paint Creek.

Witness Fail
To Meet Probers

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two scheduled witnesses failed Tuesday to show up to testify in a Senate investigation of alleged graft in buying of Army uniforms.

Chairman McClellan (D - Ark.) said "action will be taken" (presumably a threat of contempt citations) by the Senate Investigations subcommittee unless the missing witnesses, Jack Schwartz and Attilio Musto have good excuses. Both are figures in the New York garment industry.

The subcommittee had planned to quiz them about $128,000 of bonds it contends were bought in their names.

McClellan said the subcommittee intends to find whether bonds were used as payoffs to Army Quartermaster Corps officials handling clothing contracts, or in some income tax evasion scheme.

Marine Honor Guard Posted Over Bodies Of 6 Recruits

PARRIS ISLAND, S. C. (AP)—Six flag-draped caskets containing the bodies of six Marine recruits who drowned on a forced march Sunday night were placed in the U. S. Naval Hospital at nearby Beaufort, S. C., today.

A guard of honor was posted over them as a Marine court of inquiry continued its investigation of the deaths.

The court of inquiry, meeting in closed session, was ordered by Gen. Randolph Pate, Marine Corps commandant. It will recommend whether action should be brought against S. Sgt. Matthew C. McKee of Worcester, Mass., the drill instructor who ordered the platoon to make the ill-fated march.

McKee said he ordered the recruits to "teach the platoon discipline." Both Gen. Pate and Maj. Gen. Joseph C. Burger, the Parris Island base commander, said the night trek was unauthorized.

Survivors of the night march later told of an hour of horror as their buddies slipped and floundered and drowned in a mucky tidal stream near the base. They credited McKee with heroic action in saving some of the recruits. McKee said, "I can't find words to express my grief."

Five of the bodies were recovered Monday. The sixth was retrieved from a hole in the stream yesterday by Marine divers.

The dead recruits were Thomas Curtis Hardeman, 20, of Vidalia, Ga.; Donald Francis O'Shea, 18, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Charles Francis Reilly, 18, of Clyde, N. Y.; Jerry Lamont Thomas, 17, of Alexandria, Va.; Leroy Thomas, 18, of Brooklyn; and Norman Alfred Wood, 17, of Bay Shore, N. Y.

Gen. Pate said he believed regular Marine Corps procedure would be ample to cover the investigation without a congressional inquiry. He termed the accident "deplorable," but said "we have absolutely nothing to hide."

Grocery Clerk Sees
Crash, Reports 'Big'
Explosion At Scene

FORT GREEN, Fla. (AP)—Two persons died today in the flaming crashup of a passenger train and a gasoline transport truck that collided with explosive force at a crossing in this small west Florida town.

N. G. Adams of Tampa, an express messenger on the train, and Clifford Ledger of Tampa, the truck driver, burned to death.

Two hours after the spectacular crash, workmen were still trying to get their bodies out of the smoldering wreckage.

Taken to a Wauchula hospital in serious condition from burns were the conductor, L. A. Kolsterman of Tampa, and the porter, William J. Croley of Tampa.

Only one passenger, Isom Hampton of Ona, Fla., was on the train. He suffered only slight burns.

"THERE WAS a big explosion and the whole train caught fire," said Mrs. Tom Cooper, a grocery clerk who witnessed the crash.

Fort Green, a small community on the Folk-Hardee County line, is about 25 miles southwest of Bartow.

SEABOARD officials said the train is a small one which runs over a branch line between Tampa and Boca Grande.

First report on the crash in the isolated area came from the pilot of a Bartow air base plane who saw it from the air and reported it to his base.

Hillsboro Gets Order To End
Segregation

CINCINNATI (AP)—U. S. District Judge John H. Druffel today ordered the Hillsboro board of education to integrate its schools immediately.

School officials at Hillsboro had said earlier that they would consider as soon as the judge's order is received.

The usual group of Negro children who have reported daily at the Webster-Washington elementary school in Hillsboro appeared again today.

With no word from Judge Druffel at that time, they were not seated in the classrooms. The school officials have said it will be necessary for the children to take tests to determine what grades they belong in before anything else can be done.

A certified copy of Judge Druffel's order will be mailed later today to James D. Hapner, Hillsboro city solicitor and counsel for the school board.

School officials at Hillsboro said they are confronted now with the problem of finding room in the school, and chairs and probably a teacher to care for the 24 Negro children. It was for lack of room that they turned the children away daily for the last two years, officials contended.

Florida Coast Hit
By Tornadic Winds

NEW YORK (AP)—Wind and rain storms struck southeastern states, but generally fair weather prevailed in most other parts of the country today.

Tornadic winds hit areas along the southeast coast of Florida yesterday. Twisters struck at West Hollywood and north of Miami, injuring several persons.

Rain drenched sections of Florida, Georgia and South Carolina, with falls measuring from 1 to 2 inches in six hours last night. Miami reported nearly 3 inches of rain in 24 hours.

ZANESVILLE (AP)—Mrs. Madge Hunter, 83, a widow, died last night of injuries suffered earlier in the evening when her clothing was ignited by flames from an open gas stove.

Taxpayer Sends In $3,900 In Secret

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Internal Revenue Service has received $3,900 from Chicago, apparently mailed by a taxpayer with a troubled conscience.

The money, 30 bank notes of $100 each, was in a plain brown manila envelope, with no accompanying note. On the back of the envelope was a return address reading:

I. O. Thismuch
935 Clybourne Ave.
Chicago.

The revenue service said there was no such address in Chicago.

Softened Water Now Used Here

Increase In Rates To Be on Next Bills

Softened water from the new plant is now coming out of the faucets in most of the homes in Washington C. H. and, after the terminal hydrants are flushed, it will be flowing through the pipes all over the city.

Water being used is first pumped into the reservoir and, as the supply in the reservoir is lowered, it will be replenished from Paint Creek as long as there is water in the stream.

The old water was 23 to 26 grains of hardness, and the new water, according to Supt. Emerson Warner, will be 6 grains hardness.

Absolute softness is zero, which can only be obtained by private softening units which remove most or all of the remaining 6 grains, it is understood.

The degree of softness here is about the same as in other municipal plants in the country, it was said.

The next billing of the Ohio Water Co. which will be as of April 20 readings, will include the 30 percent of the total 35 percent increase in rates. The first 5 percent of the total 35 percent increase agreed upon by the city when negotiations were underway for building the new water works system here went into effect several weeks ago.

The new pumping, filtration and softening plant all under onw roof, is located 200 yards north of the old pumping station and well above high water mark.

Sufficient equipment will be maintained in the old pumping plant to furnish the city with water in case the new plant should suffer a breakdown.

Machinery in the old plant is being shifted about, and the outside pumping plant which has been in use for taking water from Paint Creek and pumping it into the reservoir, is being moved into the old plant. Since it was set up temporarily it has been located outside of the old plant at the edge of the reservoir back of the dam in Paint Creek.

A certified copy of Judge Druffel's order will be mailed later today to James D. Hapner, Hillsboro city solicitor and counsel for the school board.

School officials at Hillsboro said they are confronted now with the problem of finding room in the school, and chairs and probably a teacher to care for the 24 Negro children. It was for lack of room that they turned the children away daily for the last two years, officials contended.

Fire Kills Woman

ASHTABULA (AP)—Mrs. Theresa Agnes Kelly, 77, died yesterday when fire swept through her two story frame house. Coroner Clyde C. Roller said her body was partially burned.

McClellan said the subcommittee intends to find whether bonds were used as payoffs to Army Quartermaster Corps officials handling clothing contracts, or in some income tax evasion scheme.

Marine Honor Guard Posted Over Bodies Of 6 Recruits

PARRIS ISLAND, S. C. (AP)—Six flag-draped caskets containing the bodies of six Marine recruits who drowned on a forced march Sunday night were placed in the U.S. Naval Hospital at nearby Beaufort, S. C., today.

A guard of honor was posted over them as a Marine court of inquiry continued its investigation of the deaths.

The court of inquiry, meeting in closed session, was ordered by Gen. Randolph Pate, Marine Corps commandant. It will recommend whether action should be brought against S. Sgt. Matthew C. McKoon of Worcester, Mass., the drill instructor who ordered the platoon of 78 to make the ill-fated march.

McKoon said he ordered the march to "teach the platoon discipline." Both Gen. Pate and Maj. Gen. Joseph C. Burger, the Parris Island base commander, said the night trek was unauthorized.

Survivors of the night march later told of an hour of horror as their buddies slipped and floundered and drowned in a mucky tidal stream near the base. They credited McKoon with heroic action in saving some of the recruits. McKoon said, "I can't find words to express my grief."

Five of the bodies were recovered Monday. The sixth was retrieved from a hole in the stream yesterday by Marine divers.

The dead recruits were Thomas Curtis Hardeman, 20, of Vidalia, Ga.; Donald Francis O'Shea, 18, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Charles Francis Reilly, 18, of Clyde, N. Y.; Jerry Lamont Thomas, 17, of Alexandria, Va.; Leroy Thomas, 18, of Brooklyn; and Norman Alfred Wood, 17, of Bay Shore, N. Y.

Gen. Pate said he believed regular Marine Corps procedure would be ample to cover the investigation without a congressional inquiry. He termed the accident "deplorable," but said "we have absolutely nothing to hide."

Seaboard Line In Florida Is Mishap Victim

Grocery Clerk Sees Crash, Reports 'Big' Explosion At Scene

FORT GREEN, Fla. (AP)—Two persons died today in the flaming crash of a passenger train and a gasoline transport truck that collided with explosive force at a crossing in this small west Florida town.

N. G. Adams of Tampa, an express messenger on the train, and Clifford Ledger of Tampa, the truck driver, burned to death.

Two hours after the spectacular crash, workmen were still trying to get their bodies out of the smoldering wreckage.

Taken to a Wauchula hospital in serious condition from burns were the conductor, L. A. Kolsterman of Tampa, and the porter, William J. Crosley of Tampa.

Only one passenger, Isom Hampton of Ona, Fla., was on the train. He suffered only slight burns.

"THERE WAS a big explosion and the whole train caught fire," said Mrs. Tom Cooper, a grocery clerk who witnessed the crash.

Fort Green, a small community on the Polk-Hardee County line, is about 25 miles southwest of Bartow.

SEABOARD officials said the train is a small one which runs over a branch line between Tampa and Boca Grande.

First report on the crash in the isolated area came from the pilot of a Bartow air base plane who saw it from the air and reported it to his base.

Hillsboro Gets Order To End Segregation

CINCINNATI (AP)—U.S. District Judge John H. Druffel today ordered the Hillsboro board of education to integrate its schools immediately.

School officials at Hillsboro had said earlier that they would confer as soon as the judge's order is received.

The usual group of Negro children who have reported daily at the Webster-Washington elementary school in Hillsboro appeared again today.

With no word from Judge Druffel at that time, they were not seated in the classrooms. The school officials have said it will be necessary for the children to take tests to determine what grades they belong in before anything else can be done.

A certified copy of Judge Druffel's order will be mailed later today to James D. Hapner, Hillsboro city solicitor and counsel for the school board.

School officials at Hillsboro said they are confronted now with the problem of finding room in the school, and chairs and probably a teacher to care for the 24 Negro children. It was for lack of room that they turned the children away daily for the last two years, officials contended.

Florida Coast Hit By Tornadoic Winds

NEW YORK (AP)—Wind and rain storms struck southeastern states, but generally fair weather prevailed in most other parts of the country today.

Tornadoic winds hit areas along the southeast coast of Florida yesterday. Twisters struck at West Hollywood and north of Miami, injuring several persons.

Rain drenched sections of Florida, Georgia and South Carolina, with falls measuring from 1 to 2 inches in six hours last night. Miami reported nearly 3 inches of rain in 24 hours.

Injuries Fatal

ZANESVILLE (AP)—Mrs. Madge Hunter, 83, a widow, died last night of injuries suffered earlier in the evening when her clothing was ignited by flames from an open gas stove.

Lions Club Is Host to WHS Cage Champions

Paul Walker Speaks;
New Club Officers
Receive Nominations

The Washington C. H. Lions Club played host to the champions again Tuesday evening at the Country Club. The "champs" this time were the members of the Washington C. H. High School 1955-56 basketball team.

Following a fried chicken dinner, the team members and Lions heard an address delivered by Paul Walker (Mr. Basketball), coach of the state champion Middletown Middies.

In addition to the varsity squad, the reserve players were also guests. Each boy was introduced by head coach Herb Russell who thanked the members of the team, the Lions Club and the boosters of the sport for the successful season comprised of 15 victories and three losses.

Ninety members of the Lions Club were present.

Lion President Dustin Gorton presided during the business part of the meeting and called for a report of the nominating committee from the chairman, Ray French. The election will take place at the next meeting scheduled for April 24.

Candidates for office are: President, John Breiner, first vice president, Norris Highfield; second vice president Ray French. It is the policy of the club that a candidate elected to the office of third vice president automatically advances the following years in rotation. Therefore, no contest will be held for the above offices.

Third vice president, Tom Mark, Dr. Byers Shaw and Ed McCoy; secretary Elmer Reed, George Inskip and Dr. John Richards; treasurer, John Bailey, Richard Gillen and Robert Lytton, 1st. twister, Charles Buxton, James Smeaker and Carl Wilt; 1st. tamer, Richard Willis, Dr. Richard Junk and Joe White, directors (two to elect), Dr. Charles Piferick, L. F. Everhart, Dr. Joe Herbert, Eddie Kirk, William Lovell and Tom Christopher.

EDDIE MCCOY, chairman of the club's sports committee made the opening remarks and introduced the high school officials present. They were John Trace, principal, and Fred Rost business manager. In introducing Herb Russell head basketball coach, McCoy remarked that this marked the first time in the history of the school that two new coaches had won the S.C.O. League championship the same year. He referred to Fred Domenico, the head football coach whose team took the football title last fall, and to Russell, also a first-year coach, who finished the season with a championship team.

Russell introduced the other basketball coaches in the high school; they were Richard Filbin, reserve coach; Fred Domenico, junior high coach; Denzil Leggett, chief scorekeeper; Harry Townsend, scout, and Clyde Cramer, faculty manager.

Edward Vollette, chairman of the evening's program, introduced Paul Walker of Middletown, a long time friend and former team mate. Vollette recalled that Walker went to Middletown from Portsmouth as basketball coach in 1946 and has been coach of four state championship teams. This season, his team was undefeated; he was named coach of the year and his center, Jerry Lucas, was named player of the year.

Walker described the basketball program that has been organized at Middletown, stating that boys who wish to practice can play the sport year round. During the summer months, six courts are outdoors and the coach supervises them.

In addition, grade schools, junior high, junior varsity and varsity teams are constantly working to perfect the sport. Walker stated "Time is important for perfection. A boy must sacrifice to accomplish anything, be it his studies or some sport."

The largest crowd to watch the Middies during the regular season was at a game with Hamilton in the Cincinnati Garden, when 13,167 fans were present. A total of 62,000 watched the team during regular season and 55,000 during the tournament grind.

Walker told the young group of athletes that whatever they do in the future, "you should approach it with the proper attitude and strive to do your best."

Roger Shackelford and Jack Penwell were not present.

Managers of the team were Bob Stackhouse and Larry Foster. Gold basketballs were presented to the senior members of the squad by President Gorton. They were Fred Belles, David Lee, John Somers, Larry Foster and Bob Stackhouse.

management post on his own Monday.

Asked whether Stoughton would inherit any good "new industry" projects, Allen only smiled broadly.

HOWEVER, there are three other major projects coming up in the immediate future and Stoughton said he was already getting ready to guide them to a conclusion under the supervision of the directors.

First of the three will be the getting-together of businessmen of town and country at the banquet tables at the Country Club on April 20. This affair, a successor to the old Corn Show banquet, is sponsored jointly by the county's cattlemen and the Chamber. Paul Van Voorhis is the chairman and this time the businessmen of the town are to invite the businessmen of the country to the banquet as their guests.

Five days later, on April 25, comes the annual Business Industry Education Day, the day when the seniors of all the high schools in the county are to be the guests of business and industry. Walter Rettig is the chairman of the planning committee.

After that, on May 29, comes the annual meeting of the Country Club with a double feature program: (1) announcement of the election of five new directors and (2) a sort of unveiling of a master plan for development that is being worked out at the graduate School of City Design of Miami University.

Meanwhile, Stoughton, setting his teeth with grim determination, said he would have to try to familiarize himself with the area development committee's accomplishments, see that the election by mail of the five new directors moves along on schedule and make a check on the questionnaires to try determine which night stores should remain open.

"old stuff"—for after all she'd won the same award last year. "It's really quite a thing to win an award like that twice," Wilson said, explaining "people are 'out to get' you one thing, and also, most people's luck doesn't last that long."

But Sharon's did, and once again she'll go to the state-wide finals to be held in Columbus April 28. If she wins them, she will go to the world-famous national spelling bee, to be held in Washington D. C., later this spring.

Last year, Sharon got through care, was released Wednesday morning.

Dr. William Jones of Leesburg was released from Memorial Hospital, Tuesday, where he was a surgical patient.

Wayne Rittenhouse of Sabina, who was treated in Memorial Hospital, for traffic injuries was released Tuesday.

Mrs. Ma Leurance and infant son were released from Memorial Hospital to their home, Route 1, Leesburg, Tuesday.

Blessed Events

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Knisley, 4745 Barnhart Avenue, Dayton, are announcing the arrival of a two year old daughter, Patricia Ann, at their home, Tuesday, April 10. The Knisleys are former residents of Jeffersonville.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dennis, Route 1, New Holland, are the parents of a daughter, weighing eight pounds three ounces, born at 9:15 A. M. Wednesday in Memorial Hospital.

the elimination round of the Columbus competition and was well along in the finals before she was eliminated. "With a year's extra experience, perhaps she can do even better this year," Webb said.

She won the right to go to the Columbus contest by out-spelling champ spellers from all over the county in a written spelling bee last Saturday. Sharon got only four words wrong out of 50 and the nearest person to her, Ann Craig of Bloomingburg, had eight wrong.

"That's better than she did in the same contest last year," Sharon's mother said. "She got at least six or seven wrong then, and the year's experience apparently did her good," she added.

Sharon and Rosemary Caplinger of the Greenfield Road represented the Wilson school in the county finals. They were selected by a similar written-bee competition. A certificate of scholarship was awarded to Sharon by the contest sponsors for winning the prize. Cash prizes are in store for the winner of the Columbus finals.

In addition to the varsity squad, the reserve players were also guests. Each boy was introduced by head coach Herb Russell who thanked the members of the team, the Lions Club and the boosters of the sport for the successful season comprised of 15 victories and three losses.

Ninety members of the Lions Club were present.

Lion President Dustin Gorton presided during the business part of the meeting and called for a report of the nominating committee from the chairman, Ray French. The election will take place at the next meeting scheduled for April 24.

Candidates for office are:

President, John Breiner; first vice president, Norris Highfield; second vice president Ray French. It is the policy of the club that a candidate elected to the office of third vice president automatically advances the following year in rotation. Therefore, no contest will be held for the above offices.

Third vice president, Tom Mark, Dr. Byers Shaw and Ed McCoy; secretary Elmer Reed, George Inskip and Dr. John Richards; treasurer, John Bailey, Richard Gillen and Robert Lytton; tail twister, Charles Buxton, James Shoemaker and Carl Wilt; lion tamer, Richard Willis, Dr. Richard Junk and Joe White; directors (two to elect), Dr. Charles Piersick, L. F. Everhart, Dr. Joe Herbert, Eddie Kirk, William Lovell and Tom Christopher.

EDDIE McCOY, chairman of the club's sports committee made the opening remarks and introduced the high school officials present. They were John Trace, principal, and Fred Rust business manager. In introducing Herb Russell head basketball coach, McCoy remarked that this marked the first time in the history of the school that two new coaches had won the SCO League championship the same year. He referred to Fred Domenico, the head football coach whose team took the football title last fall, and to Russell, also a first-year coach, who finished the season with a championship team.

Russell introduced the other basketball coaches in the high school; they were Richard Filbin, reserve coach; Fred Domenico, junior high coach; Denzil Leggett, chief scorekeeper; Harry Townsend, scout, and Clyde Cramer, faculty manager.

Edward Vollette, chairman of the evening's program, introduced Paul Walker of Middletown, a long time friend and former teammate. Vollette recalled that Walker went to Middletown from Portsmouth as basketball coach in 1946 and has been coach of four state championship teams. This season, his team was undefeated; he was named coach of the year and his center, Jerry Lucas, was named player of the year.

Walker described the basketball program that has been organized at Middletown, stating that boys who wish to practice can play the sport year round. During the summer months, six courts are outdoors and the coach supervises them.

In addition, grade schools, junior high, junior varsity and varsity teams are constantly working to perfect the sport. Walker stated "Time is important for perfection. A boy must sacrifice to accomplish anything, be it his studies or some sport."

The largest crowd to watch the Middies during the regular season was at a game with Hamilton in the Cincinnati Garden, when 15,167 fans were present. A total of 62,000 watched the team during regular season and 55,000 during the tournament grind.

Walker told the young group of athletes that whatever they do in the future, "you should approach it with the proper attitude and strive to do your best."

Roger Shackelford and Jack Penwell were not present. Managers of the team were Bob Stackhouse and Larry Foster.

Gold basketballs were presented to the senior members of the squad by President Gorton. They were Fred Belles, David Lee, John Sommers, Larry Foster and Bob Stackhouse.

management post on his own Monday.

Asked whether Stoughton would inherit any good "new industry" projects, Allen only smiled broadly.

HOWEVER, there are three other major projects coming up in the immediate future and Stoughton said he was already getting ready to guide them to a conclusion under the supervision of the directors.

First of the three will be the get-together of businessmen of town and country at the banquet tables at the Country Club on April 20. This affair, a successor to the old Corn Show banquet, is sponsored jointly by the county's cattlemen and the Chamber. Paul Van Voorhis is the chairman and this time the businessmen of the town are to invite the businessmen of the country to the banquet as their guests.

Five days later, on April 25, comes the annual Business-Industry-Education Day, the day when the seniors of all the high schools in the county are to be the guests of business and industry. Walter Rettig is the chairman of the planning committee.

After that, on May 29, comes the annual meeting at the Country Club with a double feature program: (1) announcement of the election of five new directors and (2) a sort of unveiling of a master plan for development that is being worked out at the graduate School of City Design of Miami University.

Meanwhile, Stoughton, setting his teeth with grim determination, said he would have to try to familiarize himself with the area development committee's accomplishments, see that the election-by-mail of the five new directors moves along on schedule and make a check on the questionnaires to try determine which night stores should remain open.

"old stuff"—for after all she'd won the same award last year. "It's really quite a thing to win an award like that twice," Wilson said, explaining "people are 'out to get' you for one thing, and also, most people's luck doesn't last that long."

But Sharon's did, and once again she'll go to the state-wide finals, to be held in Columbus April 28. If she wins them, she will go to the world-famous national spelling bee, to be held in Washington D. C., later this spring.

Last year, Sharon got through care, was released Wednesday morning.

Dr. William Jones of Leesburg was released from Memorial Hospital, Tuesday, where he was a surgical patient.

Wayne Rittenhouse of Sabina, who was treated in Memorial Hospital, for traffic injuries was released Tuesday.

Mrs. Ma Lincurrence and infant son were released from Memorial Hospital to their home, Route 1, Leesburg, Tuesday.

Blessed Events

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jacobs, Route 1 Mt. Sterling, are the parents of a seven pound two ounce son, born Tuesday at 2:05 P. M., in Memorial Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Knisley, 4745 Barnhart Avenue, Dayton, are announcing the arrival of a two year old daughter, Patricia Ann, at their home, Tuesday, April 10. The Knisleys are former residents of Jeffersonville.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dennis, Route 1, New Holland, are the parents of a daughter, weighing eight pounds three ounces, born at 9:15 A. M. Wednesday in Memorial Hospital.

the elimination round of the Columbus competition and was well along in the finals before she was eliminated. "With a year's extra experience, perhaps she can do even better this year," Webb said.

She won the right to go to the Columbus contest by out-spelling champ spellers from all over the county in a written spelling bee last Saturday. Sharon got only four words wrong out of 50 and the nearest person to her, Ann Craig of Bloomingburg, had eight wrong.

"That's better than she did in the same contest last year," Sharon's mother said. "She got at least six or seven wrong then, and the year's experience apparently did her good," she added.

Sharon and Rosemary Caplinger of the Greenfield Road represented the Wilson school in the county finals. They were selected by a similar written-bee competition.

A certificate of scholarship was awarded to Sharon by the contest sponsors for winning the prize. Cash prizes are in store for the winner of the Columbus finals.

Speaker Praises DHIA Program

Tested Cows Better,
Directors Are Told

Cows on the national Dairy Herd Improvement Association testing program stand far above the national average in production of both milk and fat, DHIA agent Charles Myers told a meeting of the Fayette County dairy directors.

Nationally, Rife asserted, DHIA cows averaged 9,363 pounds of milk and 372 pounds of fat produced during 1955 — while the average for all cows in the country was 5,500 pounds of milk and 220 pounds of fat.

That's a difference of nearly 4,000 pounds in milk production, and more than 150 pounds of fat production, Myer pointed out, asserting that this should indicate the value of DHIA testing.

Statistics of quite the same nature indicate DHIA superiority over the last half century, Myers told the group.

Nevertheless, Myers observed, only 9.1 percent of cows in Ohio are on the DHIA program — scarcely a fragment of all the cows in the state.

DONALD RIFE, president of the directors, reported at the same meeting on the recent Ohio Dairyman's Association conference in Columbus. The Association has gone on record as favoring expenditure part of recent legislative appropriations on Dairy needs, he said. The conference issued a resolution asserting that the Ohio dairy industry deserves better facilities, he reported.

Harold Kaeser was chosen by the group to judge dairy classes at the Fayette County fair this summer.

A discussion of the brucellosis control program highlighted the early part of the meeting. Directors were asked to attend a meeting April 16 with Dr. David Hill at the Farm Bureau Auditorium to discuss the program.

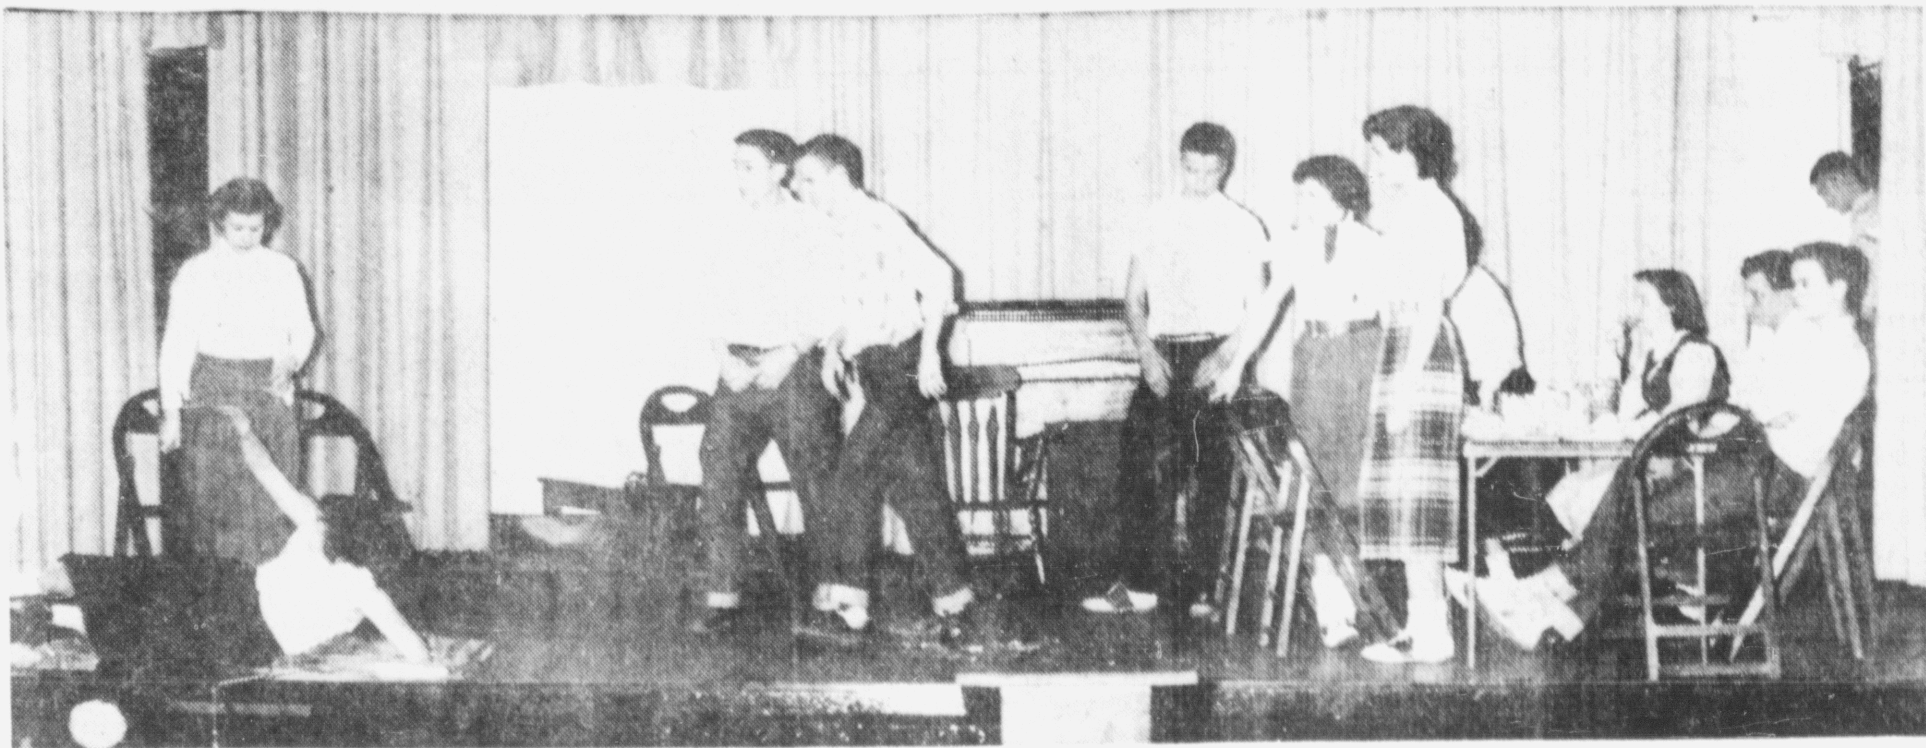

Frank Dill, Rex Bloomer and Mrs. Dale Smith were named charter members by the group. Signature of the charter will make the Fayette County Dairy Association an official non-profit organization.

Your School Report Card

By W. A. SMITH
(City School Superintendent)

During the past week the two fourth grades at Rose Avenue School were privileged to receive some first hand information concerning some of the countries of Europe about which they had just finished studying.

Mrs. Ruth Rider, one of the fourth grade teachers who with her family lived in France, showed slides of scenes taken in Holland, Switzerland, France and Germany.

Among the pictures were views of the dikes, canals, boats, tulips, the Alps and beautiful mountain scenes in Switzerland; the buildings, the Eiffel Tower and pictures taken along the southern coast of France overlooking the blue Mediterranean; and castles in Germany.

Mrs. Rider also showed the children two Dutch dolls—a boy and a girl—dressed in the native costume of Holland, and a pair of Dutch wooden shoes.

Highlight of the assembly, it was said, will be the Bible lecture on "Consulting God on World Affairs," by Angelo C. Manera, Jr., of Brooklyn, Sunday afternoon. It is open to the public.

Health For All

NEVER TOO OLD

You're never too old to get tuberculosis. Almost half of the new cases reported in the United States are among people over 45.

Wait a minute. You thought TB was a disease of young people? So did a lot of older people now in tuberculosis hospitals. Maybe that's why they are sick. Maybe they thought they didn't have to take precautions against TB because they were "too old for TB."

Tuberculosis used to be considered primarily a disease of the young, especially young women. Today, about 31 percent of new cases of TB are among people between the ages of 45 and 64, and 14 percent are over 65. More than half of those who die from TB are over 55. Men with TB outnumber women two to one.

We can't say exactly why this is so. Of course, a man over 45 has had during his lifetime plenty of opportunities than the average teen-age girl, and probably more than his wife. But infection need not mean disease. Millions of Americans are infected with TB germs without ever breaking down with the disease itself. What is the matter with those who do break down?

Tuberculosis is a preventable disease. And it is a curable disease, if found and treated early. Prevention of TB means keeping in the best of health. A new case of TB can usually be traced to a decline in general health. Resistance can be weakened by another illness, by poor nutrition, poor health habits, or by severe emotional strain. The possibility of a successful cure may be weakened by late discovery of the disease. The man who puts off his regular physical check-up, who can't "spare the time" for a chest X-ray, who shrugs off symptoms of illness as unimportant, is cutting down his chances for full recovery from TB.

Tuberculosis doesn't care how old we are. We're never too old to take care of our health, and to cooperate with efforts in our community to protect us from tuberculosis.

This column is sponsored, in the interest of better health, by: The Fayette County Tuberculosis and Health Association.

Martins Ferry Gets Extension In Pollution Case

COLUMBUS, Ohio (P)—The Ohio Water Pollution Control Board has granted Martins Ferry a short-term extension of its sewage discharge permit to July 16.

Speaker Praises DHIA Program

Tested Cows Better,
Directors Are Told

Cows on the national Dairy Herd Improvement Association testing program stand far above the national average in production of both milk and fat, DHIA agent Charles Myers told a meeting of the Fayette County dairy directors.

Nationally, Rife asserted, DHIA cows averaged 9,363 pounds of milk and 372 pounds of fat produced during 1955 — while the average for all cows in the country was 5,500 pounds of milk and 220 pounds of fat.

That's a difference of nearly 4,000 pounds in milk production, and more than 150 pounds of fat production, Myers pointed out, asserting that this should indicate the value of DHIA testing.

Statistics of quite the same nature indicate DHIA superiority over the last half century, Myers told the group.

Nevertheless, Myers observed, only 9.1 percent of cows in Ohio are on the DHIA program — scarcely a fragment of all the cows in the state.

DONALD RIFE, president of the directors, reported at the same meeting on the recent Ohio Dairyman's Association conference in Columbus. The Association has gone on record as favoring expenditure part of recent legislative appropriations on Dairy needs, he said. The conference issued a resolution asserting that the Ohio dairy industry deserves better facilities, he reported.

Harold Kaeser was chosen by the group to judge dairy classes at the Fayette County fair this summer.

A discussion of the brucellosis control program highlighted the early part of the meeting. Directors were asked to attend a meeting April 16 with Dr. David Hill at the Farm Bureau Auditorium to discuss the program.

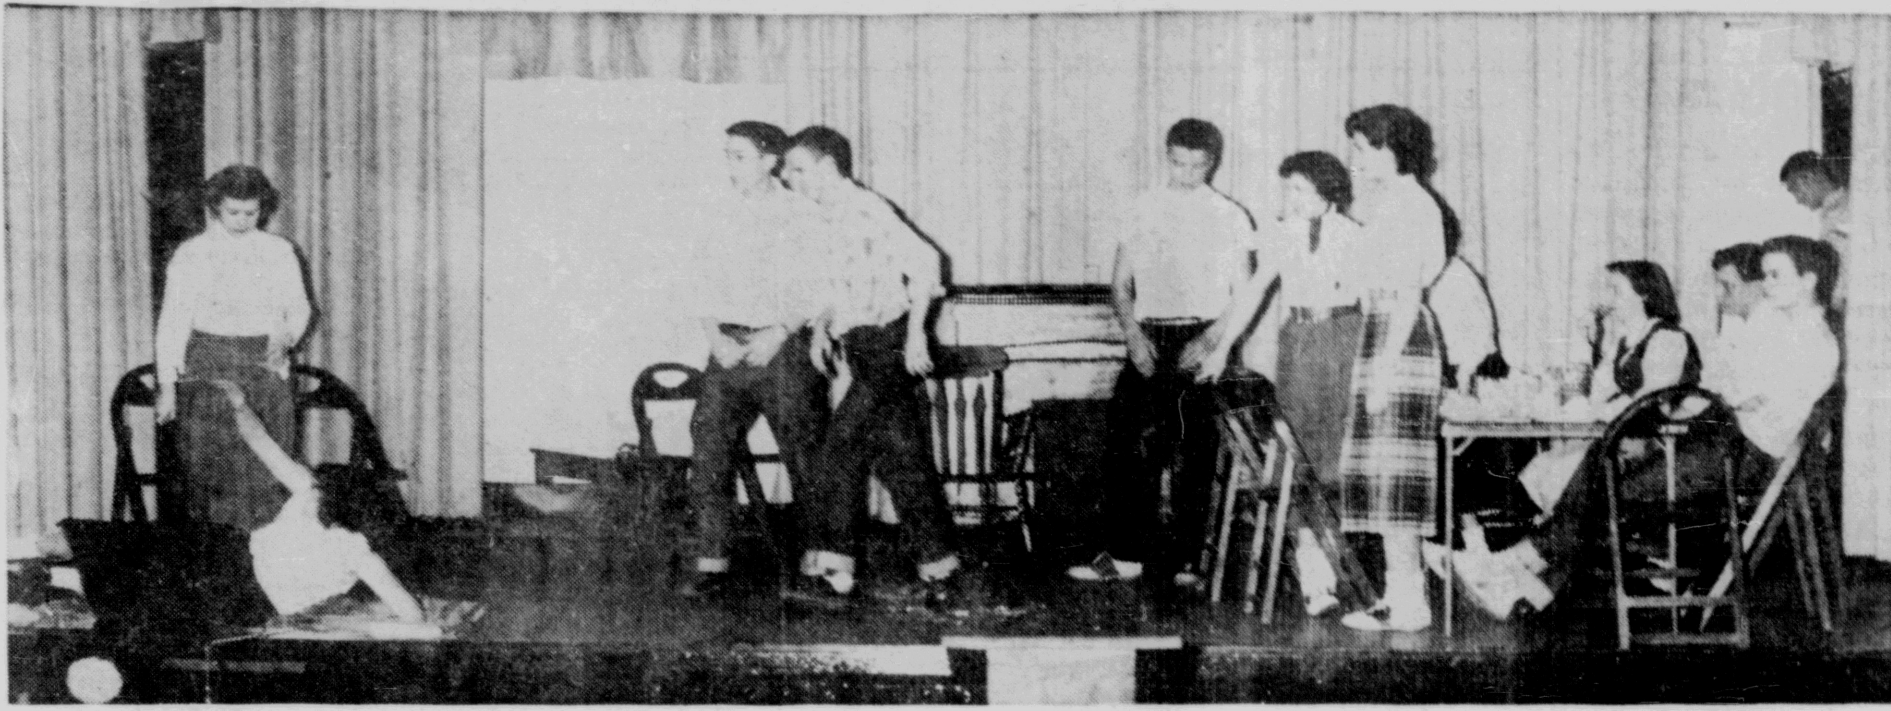

Frank Dill, Rex Bloomer and Mrs. Dale Smith were named charter-signers by the group. Signature of the charter will make the Fayette County Dairy Association an official non-profit organization.

2 Bell Phone Aides Cited For Heroism

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Telephone installer John W. Steller of Columbus and Mrs. Stella I. McCowen of Marion received Ohio Bell Telephone Co. awards Tuesday night for performing life saving acts.

Steller was given $100 and the company's Theodore N. Vail medal, named after the memory of a former president of American Telephone & Telegraph Co. Steller was credited with rescuing a man stunned by a high voltage line.

Mrs. McCowen received a citation from the Vail Medal Committee and the National Safety Council's president's medal. Her awards were in recognition of first aid she gave to the victim of a water accident at Benton Harbor, Mich.

Your School Report Card

By W. A. SMITH
(City School Superintendent)

During the past week the two fourth grades at Rose Avenue School were privileged to receive some first hand information concerning some of the countries of Europe about which they had just finished studying.

Mrs. Ruth Rider, one of the fourth grade teachers who with her family lived in France, showed slides of scenes taken in Holland, Switzerland, France and Germany.

Among the pictures were views of the dikes, canals, boats, tulips, the Alps and beautiful mountain scenes in Switzerland; the buildings, the Eiffel Tower and pictures taken along the southern coast of France overlooking the blue Mediterranean; and castles in Germany.

Mrs. Rider also showed the children two Dutch dolls—a boy and a girl—dressed in the native costume of Holland, and a pair of Dutch wooden shoes.

Highlight of the assembly, it was said, will be the Bible lecture on "Consulting God on World Affairs," by Angelo C. Manera, Jr., of Brooklyn, Sunday afternoon. It is open to the public.

Health For All

NEVER TOO OLD

You're never too old to get tuberculosis. Almost half of the new cases reported in the United States are among people over 45.

Wait a minute. You thought TB was a disease of young people? So did a lot of older people now in tuberculosis hospitals. Maybe that's why they are sick. Maybe they thought they didn't have to take precautions against TB because they were "too old for TB."

Tuberculosis used to be considered primarily a disease of the young, especially young women. Today, about 31 percent of new cases of TB are among people between the ages of 45 and 64, and 14 percent are over 65. More than half of those who die from TB are over 55. Men with TB outnumber women two to one.

We can't say exactly why this is so. Of course, a man over 45 has had during his lifetime plenty of opportunities than the average teen-age girl, and probably more than his wife. But infection need not mean disease. Millions of Americans are infected with TB germs without ever breaking down with the disease itself. What is the matter with those who do break down?

Tuberculosis is a preventable disease. And it is a curable disease, if found and treated early. Prevention of TB means keeping in the best of health. A new case of TB can usually be traced to a decline in general health. Resistance can be weakened by another illness, by poor nutrition, poor health habits, or by severe emotional strain. The possibility of a successful cure may be weakened by late discovery of the disease. The man who puts off his regular physical check-up, who can't "spare the time" for a chest X-ray, who shrugs off symptoms of illness as unimportant, is cutting down his chances for full recovery from TB.

Tuberculosis doesn't care how old we are. We're never too old to take care of our health, and to cooperate with efforts in our community to protect us from tuberculosis.

Political Trends Confusing To Many Voters

The up-surges and down-plunges in politics are often beyond the understanding of the average citizen.

Whether an average voter lives here in Washington, C. H. or somewhere else in Fayette County, or in a New England state or out in the Far West, he or she easily can become confused over the shifting trends and it is hard to determine the cause.

Many supporters of Adlai Stevenson for the Democratic presidential nomination, must be wryly recalling that famous line written by Robert Burns, the Bard of Ayrshire: "The best laid schemes of mice and men gang aft a-gley." For, while recent political developments cannot be said to have destroyed Stevenson's chances for the Democratic candidacy, there is no doubt that the great advantage he enjoyed some time ago has been rapidly evaporating.

As of early March, most political writers were saying Stevenson led the other Democratic possibilities by a country mile. Then came the New Hampshire primary and the first serious reversal. Stevenson, it is true, did not personally campaign in New Hampshire, but a strong slate of delegates, made up of leading local figures, was pledged to him. It was expected that this slate would make an excellent showing, even in the face of Senator Kefauver's personal campaigning. But the pro-Stevenson vote was small — much smaller than was anticipated.

The Minnesota primary followed—and brought with it the deluge. Here Stevenson had campaigned vigorously. He had the full backing of the state organization and the Democratic leaders. The Kefauver campaign, by contrast, seemed poorly organized and even amateurish. It was felt that Stevenson should win by a wide margin—two to one or better. The result was a grade-A upset and a stunning victory for the Senator from Tennessee. Affer Minnesota, Stevenson's political star reached its lowest point so far. Senator Kefauver's old-fashioned method of campaigning, in which he meets and talks informally with as many individual voters as possible, has produced results that have confounded political experts.

This has aroused some interesting speculations. The powerful Democratic state organizations, for the most part, want none of Senator Kefauver. But they are not likely to want Stevenson either unless by convention time he has demonstrated a real upsurge in public following and ballot support. Thus the stage could be set for the nomination of a comparative dark horse. Governor Harriman's name is often mentioned in this connection. So, also is that of Ohio's Governor Lausche.

On the Republican side the interest has naturally centered on vice-presidential possibilities. President Eisenhower, of course, will face no contest for the top spot. Vice-President Nixon seems about as certain a choice as anyone can be in the world of politics. His write-in vote in New Hampshire was remarkably large. The really big Nixon boost, however, came at the White House press conference of March 14th, when the president said: "I would be happy to be on any political ticket in which I was a candidate with him." This is regarded as about as strong and unequivocal endorsement as the president is in a position to give.

Going past the primaries, what of November? All the polls show that the President has a wide lead over any of the Democrats named. The professional gamblers at Las Vegas are said to be offering three-to-one odds on Eisenhower vs. anyone. However, the Republican leadership is cautioning against overconfidence. The memory of 1948, when Governor Dewey looked an absolute certainty until the votes were counted, remains sharp and bitter.

No Penny Divers Nowadays

By Hal Boyle

NASSAU, Bahamas (P) — Tourists arriving here by ship in the old days used to get a thrill out of tossing pennies into the sea and watching native diving boys retrieve them.

But it has graduated into a tourist sport today.

Several boatloads of the boys, their chony bodies glistening in the morning sun, rowed out to meet our cruise vessel. One of the passengers living the upper deck rails flipped out a penny. The boys below watched distrustfully as the copper coin hit the water and sank.

One of them looked up and called in tones of dignified reproach.

Please, nothing smaller than a quarter!

It is difficult to say what is more entertaining on a cruise—to look at the sights or watch the tourists, who make quite a spectacle of themselves.

They storm ashore at the first chance, a merry morn in search of souvenirs at a bargain rate.

The surest way to tell a tourist here is by the fact that half an hour after he hits Bay Street, the main shopping thoroughfare, he will be wearing a $1.50 Nassau straw hat. The local residents go bareheaded.

Liquor prices are about half what they are in the United States. You are allowed to return with a gallon duty-free, and most visitors avail themselves of the privilege. Oddly, half of them explain pointedly to the other half: "It's not for me. I'm taking it back for friends."

But most tourists are infected with a strange, buying fever. They will buy anything from a Mickey Mouse watch to a bolt of English doeskin—just so they think it's a bargain.

One tourist I met, wearily trudging along with a native basket loaded with knickknacks, said:

"Isn't this an odd town? I've looked all day for a place where could buy a package of Life-savers. Couldn't find them anywhere."

He walked on, shaking his head, a doleful Robinson Crusoe in search of civilization.

But the best bargain in Old Nassau to many a food lover is conch chowder. It has a rich, almost nut-like tang to it that makes Manhattan or Boston clam chowder pale in comparison.

Some two centuries ago 3,000 pirates hung out in the Bahamas. It couldn't have been the loot that caused so many to flock here. It must have been the conch chowder.

Nassau is a conservative community. While it welcomes all tourists, it doesn't like to see too much tourist epidermis exposed anywhere except at the beach.

"It is against Bahamian custom," says a polite note handed to all visitors, "for ladies to appear on the public streets in abbreviated sports costumes. Extremely short shorts and bra or halter ensembles are not welcomed on the streets and should not be worn while shopping."

About Lausche And Symington

By George Sokolsky

All the Democratic candidates are willing to say that they can beat President Eisenhower. Their arguments do not sound realistic. At first, the Democrats thought that they could kill off Eisenhower by throwing dead cats at the vice president, Richard Nixon. It came to nothing.

Then the Democrats began to fight among themselves and they sounded like a lot of 1952 Republicans. The Kefauver-Stevenson debate added nothing to the reputation of either. The Shivers-Johnson quarrel in Texas is meaningless because Sam Rayburn will undoubtedly prevail.

There is a vulgarism in this campaign as a result of President Eisenhower's heart attack. Naturally, a heart attack is a serious matter, so is pneumonia, a tumor on the brain, or even slipping on a cake of soap in a bathtub. The political gamble of the year is whether President Eisenhower will be able to go through with a tough campaign. There is even speculation as to what might happen if Eisenhower were to die before he could be inaugurated. The Congress would probably have to elect a president and it would probably be Sam Rayburn. The Supreme Court might even be called upon to decide whether the vice president-elect qualified. This ugly, this really unmanly speculation is the cause for the feverish activity in the Democratic party—an activity so feverish that there is even a campaign on for the vice presidency. Mayor Wagner of New York City being most active in that field.

At this point, attention needs to be called to two Democratic dark horses who are being taken very seriously in both Democratic and Republican circles. One is Governor Frank J. Lausche of Ohio who is seeking the Democratic nomination for senator in his state and who is likely to be elected. On all sides, it is admitted that Governor Lausche would make the strongest Democratic candidate for the presidency; some believe that he could unite the Democratic party and defeat President Eisenhower. He has five times been elected Governor of Ohio.

The other, Stuart Symington, is Senator from Missouri. He has been a businessman, a cabinet officer and a legislator and could be more acceptable to southern Democrats than either Kefauver or Harriman. He got a bit fouled up during the McCarthy-Army hearings but it is doubtful if that would hurt him much with Democrats who him problem it is to find a candidate who can consolidate the southern and northern big city wings of the party. The leading candidates, Kefauver, Stevenson and Harriman, have not established their ability to achieve such unity.

This is a serious matter for such a northern big city leader as Carmine DeSapio of New York who was correct in estimating that Stevenson would have a tough time of it. A year ago, he downgraded Stevenson. But DeSapio has not been able to stir up a clamor for Harriman nor has he found any other candidate to support. If Harriman could be nominated, it would be of some political advantage to DeSapio.

One of DeSapio's difficulties is Mayor Wagner's ambition to run for vice president. If Harriman is the candidate for president, Wagner cannot be the candidate for vice president as the convention is not going to nominate two men from New York. Therefore, despite the fact that it is bad local politics, Wagner has declared for Stevenson. This has produced a very embarrassing situation in New York Democratic circles and may lead to lots of trouble for the mayor.

The Democrats have rarely been faced by such a complex situation since the years when Al Smith was a candidate. One of their most serious problems is to raise money for the campaign. The Republicans are rich and they will undoubtedly be able to raise all the money they need from the prosperous corporations who have never had it so good. The Democrats will need to find their money from among the labor unions and from the corporations who contribute to both parties because they do not know which is the right god. The labor unions are apparently holding off until they know what kind of a candidate they are going to get. This year there is likely to be little racketeer money for either party because the racketeers are for the moment afraid of investigations, of which there are plenty.

Skin Cancer Signs Not Hard To Detect

By HEPMAN N. BUNDESEN

We can cure cancer of the skin—easily—if treatment is begun early enough. Each year thousands of persons suffer from this ailment, one of the most common forms of cancer.

Because it can be detected with the naked eye, you yourself can help check it properly, should you become a victim. But unless you know what to look for, the change from a precancerous condition to a cancerous lesion usually takes place so slowly that you might not realize it has occurred.

Sealy Patch

Most common form of precancerous skin condition is keratosis. This is a dry, sealy patch or clump of patches of skin usually darker than the surrounding area. Keratosis generally appears on exposed surfaces such as the face, ears, neck and hands of older persons.

While such a condition may not develop into cancer, better have it checked by your doctor, especially if bleeding occurs.

Any white, sealy thickening of the lip or membranes of your mouth should also be checked by a physician. So should chronic skin ulcers, burn scars or any other old inflammatory lesions which don't heal.

Harmless Growths

Moles usually are harmless growths. But they sometimes turn into malignant melanoma, a rare but extremely dangerous form of skin cancer.

The common freckle, reddish birthmark or skin-colored mole is not precancerous. However, the dark brown or blue-black mole, slightly raised from the skin, can be dangerous. Signs which indicate you should see your doctor are the appearance of a dull, diffuse brownish zone spreading from such a mole, or a mole which bleeds or becomes blacker or larger.

Basal-cell cancer is the most common form of skin cancer. Usually it appears as a small, firm, translucent gray bump on the skin. It is most likely to appear on the cheeks, forehead, nose or back of the hands. It is painless and seldom bleeds.

A fully developed basal-cell cancer has a central area of ulceration circled by a raised, pearly gray edge.

Signs and Symptoms

Now you know what some skin cancers look like. Just remember in looking for signs and symptoms that any increase in size, change in shape, deepening of color, bleeding or ulceration of a painless mole or sore which does not heal may be cancer unless it is proven otherwise.

Goodyear Atomic Labor Practice Hit By Union Local

CINCINNATI (P) — Goodyear Atomic Corp., operator of the Portsmouth area atomic plant, Tuesday was charged with unfair labor practices by the Oil Chemical and Atomic workers.

Local 10-689 of the union filed charges with the regional office of the National Labor Relations Board here that the firm made changes in plant routine without collective bargaining with the union.

The union said that establishment of a new parking lot forces employees to walk "as much as a mile" to reach their time clocks. Another complaint was that a new identification badge system requires employees in car pools to use entrance gates at widely separated points.

An NLRB spokesman said that both sides of the dispute would be investigated to determine if a hearing will be held.

The Kefauver campaign, by contrast, seemed poorly organized and even amateurish. It was felt that Stevenson should win by a wide margin—two to one or better. The result was a grade-A upset and a stunning victory for the Senator from Tennessee. After Minnesota, Stevenson's political star reached its lowest point so far. Senator Kefauver's old-fashioned method of campaigning, in which he meets and talks informally with as many individual voters as possible, has produced results that have confounded political experts.

This has aroused some interesting speculations. The powerful Democratic state organizations, for the most part, want none of Senator Kefauver. But they are not likely to want Stevenson either unless by convention time he has demonstrated a real upsurge in public following and ballot support. Thus the stage could be set for the nomination of a comparative dark horse. Governor Harriman's name is often mentioned in this connection. So, also is that of Ohio's Governor Lausche.

On the Republican side the interest has naturally centered on vice-presidential possibilities. President Eisenhower, of course, will face no contest for the top spot. Vice-President Nixon seems about as certain a choice as anyone can be in the world of politics. His write-in vote in New Hampshire was remarkably large. The really big Nixon boost, however, came at the White House press conference of March 14th, when the president said: "I would be happy to be on any political ticket in which I was a candidate with him." This is regarded as about as strong and unequivocal endorsement as the president is in a position to give.

Going past the primaries, what of November? All the polls show that the President has a wide lead over any of the Democrats named. The professional gamblers at Las Vegas are said to be offering three-to-one odds on Eisenhower vs. anyone. However, the Republican leadership is cautioning against overconfidence. The memory of 1948, when Governor Dewey looked an absolute certainty until the votes were counted, remains sharp and bitter.

No Penny Divers Nowadays

By Hal Boyle

NASSAU, Bahama (U) — Tourists arriving here by ship in the old days used to get a thrill out of tossing pennies into the sea and watching native diving boys retrieve them.

But it has graduated into a two-bit sport today.

Several boatloads of the boys, their ebony bodies glistening in the morning sun, rowed out to meet our cruise vessel. One of the passengers lining the upper deck rails flipped out a penny. The boys below watched disinterestedly as the copper coin hit the water and sank.

One of them looked up and called in tones of dignified reproach: "Please, nothing smaller than a quarter."

It is difficult to say what is more entertaining on a cruise—to look at the sights or watch the tourists, who make quite a spectacle of themselves.

They storm ashore at the first chance, a merry mob in search of souvenirs at a bargain rate. The surest way to tell a tourist here is by the fact that half an hour after he hits Bay Street, the main shopping thoroughfare, he will be wearing a $1.50 Nassau straw hat. The local residents go bare-headed.

Liquor prices are about half what they are in the United States. You are allowed to return with a gallon, duty-free, and most visitors avail themselves of the privilege. Oddly, half of them explain pointedly to the other half: "It's not for me. I'm taking it back for friends."

But most tourists are infected with a strange buying fever. They will buy anything from a Mickey Mouse watch to a bolt of English doekin—just so they think it's a bargain.

One tourist I met, wearily trudging along with a native basket loaded with knickknacks, said:

"Isn't this an odd town? I've looked all day for a place where I could buy a package of Life-savers. Couldn't find them anywhere."

He walked on, shaking his head, a doleful Robinson Crusoe in search of civilization.

But the best bargain in Old Nassau for many a food lover is conch chowder. It has a rich, almost nut-like tang to it that makes Manhattan or Boston clam chowder pale in comparison.

Some two centuries ago 3,000 pirates hung out in the Bahamas. It couldn't have been the loot that caused so many to flock here. It must have been the conch chowder.

Nassau is a conservative community. While it welcomes all tourists, it doesn't like to see too much tourist epidermis exposed anywhere except at the beach.

"It is against Bahamian custom," says a polite note handed to all visitors, "for ladies to appear on the public streets in abbreviated sports costumes. Extremely short shorts and bra or halter ensembles are not welcomed on the streets and should not be worn while shopping."

About Lausche And Symington

By George Sokolsky

All the Democratic candidates are willing to say that they can beat President Eisenhower. Their arguments do not sound realistic. At first, the Democrats thought that they could kill off Eisenhower by throwing dead cats at the vice president, Richard Nixon. It came to nothing.

Then the Democrats began to fight among themselves and they sounded like a lot of 1952 Republicans. The Kefauver-Stevenson debate adds nothing to the reputation of either. The Shivers-Johnson quarrel in Texas is meaningless because Sam Rayburn will undoubtedly prevail.

There is a vulgarity in this campaign as a result of President Eisenhower's heart attack. Naturally, a heart attack is a serious matter; so is pneumonia, a tumor on the brain, or even slipping on a cake of soap in a bath-tub. The political gamble of the year is whether President Eisenhower will be able to go through with a tough campaign. There is even speculation as to what might happen if Eisenhower were to die before he could be inaugurated. The Congress would probably have to elect a president and it would probably be Sam Rayburn. The Supreme Court might even be called upon to decide whether the vice president-elect qualified. This ugly, this really unmanly speculation is the cause for the feverish activity in the Democratic party—an activity so feverish that there is even a campaign on for the vice presidency. Mayor Wagner of New York City being most active in that field.

At this point, attention needs to be called to two Democratic dark horses who are being taken very seriously in both Democratic and Republican circles. One is Governor Frank J. Lausche of Ohio who is seeking the Democratic nomination for senator in his state and who is likely to be elected. On all sides, it is admitted that Governor Lausche would make the strongest Democratic candidate for the presidency; some believe that he could unite the Democratic party and defeat President Eisenhower. He has five times been elected Governor of Ohio.

The other, Stuart Symington, is Senator from Missouri. He has been a businessman, a cabinet officer and a legislator and could be more acceptable to southern Democrats than either Kefauver or Harriman. He got a bit fouled up during the McCarthy-Army hearings but it is doubtful if that would hurt him much with Democrats whose problem it is to find a candidate who can consolidate the southern and northern big city wings of their party. The leading candidates, Kefauver, Stevenson and Harriman, have not established their ability to achieve such unity.

This is a serious matter for such a northern big city leader as Carmine DeSapio of New York who was correct in estimating that Stevenson would have a tough time of it. A year ago, he down-graded Stevenson. But DeSapio has not been able to stir up a clamor for Harriman nor has he found any other candidate to support. If Harriman could be nominated, it would be of some political advantage to DeSapio.

One of DeSapio's difficulties is Mayor Wagner's ambition to run for vice president. If Harriman is the candidate for president, Wagner cannot be the candidate for vice president as the convention is not going to nominate two men from New York. Therefore, despite the fact that it is bad local politics, Wagner has declared for Stevenson. This has produced a very embarrassing situation in New York Democratic circles and may lead to lots of trouble for the mayor.

The Democrats have rarely been faced by such a complex situation since the years when Al Smith was a candidate. One of their most serious problems is to raise money for the campaign. The Republicans are rich and they will undoubtedly be able to raise all the money they need from the prosperous corporations who have never had it so good. The Democrats will need to find their money from among the labor unions and from the corporations who contribute to both parties because they do not know which is the right god. The labor unions are apparently holding off until they know what kind of a candidate they are going to get. This year there is likely to be little racketeer money for either party because the racketeers are for the moment afraid of investigations, of which there are plenty.

You Can Soon Lug Martinis Around In Your Pocket

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (U)—The day may soon come when you can carry around that extra-dry martini—complete with olive—in an envelope in your pocket.

Or when the housewife can laugh in she drops a dozen fresh eggs because she knows they won't crack or break.

New plastic film containers for martinis, eggs and many other products went on display today at the opening of the American Packaging Assn.'s 25th annual packaging exposition and conference.

The shell-less eggs are packaged in unbreakable, transparent polyethylene containers—in which they can be boiled and from which they can be eaten.

Skin Cancer Signs Not Hard To Detect

By HEPMAN N. BUNDESEN

We can cure cancer of the skin—easily—if treatment is begun early enough. Each year thousands of persons suffer from this ailment, one of the most common forms of cancer.

Because it can be detected with the naked eye, you yourself can help check it properly, should you become a victim. But unless you know what to look for, the change from a precancerous condition to a cancerous lesion usually takes place so slowly that you might not realize it has occurred.

Scaly Patch

Most common form of precancerous skin condition is keratosis. This is a dry, scaly patch or clump of patches of skin usually darker than the surrounding area. Keratosis generally appears on exposed surfaces such as the face, ears, neck and hands of older persons.

While such a condition may not develop into cancer, better have it checked by your doctor, especially if bleeding occurs.

Any white, scaly thickening of the lip or membranes of your mouth should also be checked by a physician. So should chronic skin ulcers, burn scars or any other old inflammatory lesions which don't heal.

Harmless Growths

Moles usually are harmless growths. But they sometimes turn into malignant melanoma, a rare but extremely dangerous form of skin cancer.

The common freckle, reddish birthmark or skin-colored mole is not precancerous. However, the dark brown or blue-black mole, slightly raised from the skin, can be dangerous. Signs which indicate you should see your doctor are the appearance of a dull, diffuse brownish zone spreading from such a mole, or a mole which bleeds or becomes blacker or larger.

Basal-cell cancer is the most common form of skin cancer. Usually it appears as a small, firm, translucent gray bump on the skin. It is most likely to appear on the cheeks, forehead, nose or back of the hands. It is painless and seldom bleeds.

A fully developed basal-cell cancer has a central area of ulceration circled by a raised, pearly gray edge.

Signs and Symptoms

Now you know what some skin cancers look like. Just remember in looking for signs and symptoms that any increase in size, change in shape, deepening of color, bleeding or ulceration of a painless mole or sore which does not heal may be cancer unless it is proven otherwise.

Be safe—see your doctor.

Goodyear Atomic Labor Practice Hit By Union Local

CINCINNATI (U) — Goodyear Atomic Corp., operator of the Portsmouth area atomic plant, Tuesday was charged with unfair labor practices by the Oil Chemical and Atomic workers.

Local 10-689 of the union filed charges with the regional office of the National Labor Relations Board here that the firm made changes in plant routine without collective bargaining with the union.

The union said that establishment of a new parking lot forces employees to walk "as much as a mile" to reach their timeclocks. Another complaint was that a new identification badge system requires employees in car pools to use entrance gates at widely separated points.

An NLRB spokesman said that both sides of the dispute would be investigated to determine if a hearing will be held.

CANCER FACTS

CHECKMATE CANCER

The meaning of the word "check" in the game of chess, according to Webster's is: "State of being in danger and under the necessity of being made safe in the next move." The next move in fighting cancer, says the American Cancer Society, is a checkup. Strike back at cancer with a checkup and a check.

Fayette County Chapter Of American Cancer Society

Mrs. Clark Sheppard, program chairman, presented Miss Marian Moore as guest speaker.

Miss Moore, who is supply secretary of the W.S.C.S., explained the duties pertaining to her office in the combined circles.

The May meeting which will feature a covered dish dinner at the church was also planned and the meeting was adjourned.

During the social hour, Mrs. Summers was assisted by Mrs. Harold Moats in the serving of refreshments.

Need for Rural High School Questioned by Rural Parents

The need for a new, all-rural high school was sharply questioned in the second bulletin issued by the Rural Parents Association (RPA), an organization formed several weeks ago with the aim of consolidating the city and the county schools into one school district with one high school.

The bulletin was distributed through the mails to residents of rural Fayette County.

A first bulletin was issued about two weeks ago and the second issue promised more in the near future.

Decreasing county population and space to spare in county schools were put forth by the RPA as reasons against the construction of a new school. The document also questioned the need for an amount for construction as large as that asked last fall.

General plea of the present issue is for mutual aid and cooperation between the city and county in the best interests of all.

Members of the RPA steering committee, which issued the bulletin, are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Haines, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hyer, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Hagler, Mr. and Mrs. Martin O'Call, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Marting, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. David Carr, Mr. and Mrs. Grove Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Ray C. French, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Babb, Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Marting, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Cunningham, Mr. and Mrs. James McWilliams, Mr. and Mrs. William Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Preston Dray, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Grim and Mr. and Mrs. Joe White.

Text of the bulletin follows:

LAST WEEK we gave you some preliminary information regarding the County School situation. In this report we discuss another VERY IMPORTANT part of the problem.

WHY POPULATION CHANGES IN FAYETTE COUNTY ARE IMPORTANT AND MUST BE CONSIDERED IN DETERMINING A SOUND SCHOOL PROGRAM.

Year	Rural Pop.	Children
1880	16,666	4,533
1910	12,731	3,463
1930	10,801	3,198
1950	10,211	2,761
1955	-----	2,868

The above chart shows the tremendous change in rural Fayette County in the span of one life time. Over 6,000 fewer people and 1,700 fewer school children.

The best information available today from the U. S. Department of Agriculture and other Government Agencies is that farm population will continue to decline as more technological changes in farm machinery and agricultural practices occur. Such changes will further reduce the need for human labor and lead to further increase in the size of individual farms.

In the face of this, any increase in population in Fayette County will be in Washington C. H. and in what is known as rural residential.

Any such potential increase is entirely dependent on future industrialization. Population will not increase unless there are new job opportunities or ways for more people to make a living.

Let's look at the known and visible effects of the population decline which has already taken place and how it has already affected Fayette County schools.

Cisco, Buena Vista, Conner and Yatesville schools have already been abandoned. These schools were not one-room buildings. They were well constructed, large consolidated buildings.

The Cisco School was built in 1913 and abandoned in 1940. It was built to house six elementary and two junior high grades. Within a year of the opening of the building the seventh and eighth grades were moved to Good Hope.

With variations, the history of the other three buildings is the same.

Let's look now at some of the buildings currently in use to further illustrate what is happening.

According to the "enrollment by grades" report "Principals' Reports to the State Department of Education" filed October 1, 1955:

Perry-New Martinsburg School had 47 students.

Marion School had 80 students.

Green-Olive had 98 students.

Paint-Bookwalter had 58 students.

Good Hope and Bloomingburg Schools may, as to today, have a maximum number of students for the facilities available. But, this situation does not result from a growing population. It is the direct result of the abandonment of buildings which were uneconomic to operate and of the districting of students which, of course, followed the closing of the other buildings.

The four buildings still in operation - Perry, Marion, Green and Paint, now pose problems of economics, due to their total enrollment through a full eight grade operation.

Let's look further. Saturday, March 31, an official delegation made up of Miami Trace Citizens Committee members, Miami Trace School Board members and Miami Trace administrative personnel presented a report to the County Board of Education.

This report was intended to establish Miami Trace ability to set up High School facilities next fall for the 200 to 300 High School students who would not be attending Washington High School.

They explained that they would be able to handle the High School operation because they had found they had classroom space that was not being used.

By the way, you should know that this delegation first refused to make their report when they found that citizens of the Miami Trace District would be present. The meeting was completed only after their attention was called to the fact that all school board meetings must be open to the public at all times.

Last fall, Miami Trace officials asked for $442,000 which they said would be used to renovate and rehabilitate existing elementary schools.

They also asked for $1,200,000 to build a new 600 student High School.

These requests resulted from the report of the prior County Citizens Committee investigation.

During the week of March 21, a new 28-man Fact Finding Committee appointed by the Miami Trace Board began another investigation.

This latest committee contains many people who were members of the original Citizens Committee.

On March 23 a report was given to the press by Mr. Herbert Perrill, a member of the Miami Trace School Board, who accompanied the Fact Finders. Mr. Perrill is quoted as saying, "The three crowded schools were Bloomingburg, Madison Mills and Marion with Bloomingburg being the most crowded." "The buildings and equipment were found to be in 'acceptable condition'."

Perrill said that some repairs were needed but that most of them could be classed as of a minor nature. It is further stated that the principal need was for improved lighting in all the buildings.

Let's analyze this information, in comparison with the request made last fall for $442,000.

Let's look at the request for $1,200,000 to build a high school for 600 students when this amount of money will build a High School for approximately 1,000 students.

How do these conflicting statements and conflicting requests sound to you?

Does this sound as if the type of investigation has been made that will afford the best possible school facilities for our children without the waste of family funds through excessive taxes?

Does this sound like the kind of investigation that can determine if the best facilities with the lowest cost to each tax payer, rural and city, through cooperation, is feasible and practical?

The Rural Parents Association believes that if proper facilities can be achieved with the lowest tax cost to each tax payer, Rural and City, through cooperation and merger - then we should cooperate and merge into one district.

For years, the public efforts of the County Board of Education, the County Superintendent of Schools and rural board members have been directed to prevent a mutual and cooperative investigation of this whole county's school problems.

To prevent such mutual cooperation they have raised the issues of tax inequality, unequal tax duplicate, non-representation, etc.

In later bulletins, we will discuss the confusion created by such an approach and give you additional information of a constructive nature, not destructive, because we believe the people of Fayette County realize that it is better for all of us to live as friends, with appreciation for one another and with a desire to stand united in the solving of our problems and the welfare of our children.

4 Candidates For Governor Expound Theories In Talks

(By The Associated Press)

One Republican and three Democrats seeking the nomination as candidates for Ohio governor spoke Monday night at four places around the state.

In Mount Vernon, Democrat Michael V. DiSalle called upon the state to help solve the problem of farm prices and production.

He told an audience of Knox County Democratic committee members that although the farm problem was a national one the state could help in the "important phases of education, research and service."

DiSalle called for improvement of the state fairgrounds and more emphasis upon farm research. He recommended that consideration be given to expanding the facilities of the Ohio State University College of Agriculture.

In Millersburg, Democrat Oscar L. Fleckner also touched on the farm problem. He told Holmes County Farm Bureau Federation members.

"Farm families are squeezed between declining prices for their produce and rising prices for their needs. Ohio can, and should, extend a helping hand by clearly and unequivocally exempting Ohio grain farmers from personal property taxes on grain stored under government loans."

In Cincinnati, Democrat Robert W. Reider charged that auto insurance discriminates against the safe driver.

Speaking at a meeting of party members Reider said:

Millions of dollars in excessive auto insurance premiums have been milked from Ohioans under an unfair rate formula.

"The accident-free driver receives no premium reduction based on his record of safe-driving. He pays as much as the careless driver, and that is a false basis for setting rates and must be changed."

In Westlake, near Cleveland, Lt. Gov. John W. Brown, a candidate for the Republican nomination, called for "a thorough analysis of all sources of state revenues."

Brown told a Republican club:

"It is regrettable that our tax structure like Topsy, just 'grows.' It is unthinkable that we should let it continue without factual data to justify each tax levied on the citizens of this state."

The American Kennel Club accepts 112 breeds of pure-bred dogs.

Need for Rural High School Questioned by Rural Parents

The need for a new, all-rural high school was sharply questioned in the second bulletin issued by the Rural Parents Association (RPA), an organization formed several weeks ago with the aim of consolidating the city and the county schools into one school district with one high school.

The bulletin was distributed through the mails to residents of rural Fayette County.

A first bulletin was issued about two weeks ago and the second issue promised more in the near future.

Decreasing county population and space to spare in county schools were put forth by the RPA as reasons against the construction of a new school. The document also questioned the need for an amount for construction as large as that asked last fall.

General plea of the present issue is for mutual aid and cooperation between the city and county in the best interests of all.

Members of the RPA steering committee, which issued the bulletin, are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Haines, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hyer, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Hagler, Mr. and Mrs. Martin O'Call, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Marting, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. David Carr, Mr. and Mrs. Grove Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Ray C. French, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Babb, Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Marting, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Cunningham, Mr. and Mrs. Preston Dray, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Grim and Mr. and Mrs. Joe White.

Text of the bulletin follows:

LAST WEEK we gave you some preliminary information regarding the County School situation. In this report we discuss another VERY IMPORTANT part of the problem.

WHY POPULATION CHANGES IN FAYETTE COUNTY ARE IMPORTANT AND MUST BE CONSIDERED IN DETERMINING A SOUND SCHOOL PROGRAM. RURAL FAYETTE COUNTY U. S. CENSUS REPORT

Year	Rural Pop.	Children
1880	16,666	4,533
1910	12,731	3,463
1930	10,801	3,198
1950	10,211	2,761
1955	-----	2,868

The above chart shows the tremendous change in rural Fayette County in the span of one life time. Over 6,000 fewer people and 1,700 fewer school children.

The best information available today from the U. S. Department of Agriculture and other Government Agencies is that farm population will continue to decline as more technological changes in farm machinery and agricultural practices occur. Such changes will further reduce the need for human labor and lead to further increase in the size of individual farms.

In the face of this, any increase in population in Fayette County will be in Washington C. H. and in what is known as rural residential.

Any such potential increase is entirely dependent on future industrialization. Population will not increase unless there are new job opportunities or ways for more people to make a living.

Let's look at the known and visible effects of the population decline which has already taken place and how it has already affected Fayette County schools.

Cisco, Buena Vista, Conner and Yatesville schools have already been abandoned. These schools were not one-room buildings. They were well constructed, large consolidated buildings.

The Cisco School was built in 1913 and abandoned in 1940. It was built to house six elementary and two junior high grades. Within a year of the opening of the building the seventh and eighth grades were moved to Good Hope.

With variations, the history of the other three buildings is the same.

Let's look now at some of the buildings currently in use to further illustrate what is happening.

According to the "enrollment by grades" report "Principals' Reports to the State Department of Education" filed October 1, 1955:

Perry-New Martinsburg School had 47 students.

Marion School had 80 students.

Green-Olive had 98 students.

Paint-Bookwalter had 58 students.

Good Hope and Bloomingburg Schools may, as to today, have a maximum number of students for the facilities available. But, this situation does not result from a growing population. It is the irect result of the abandonment of buildings which were uneconomic to operate and of the districting of students which, of course, followed the closing of the other buildings.

The four buildings still in operation - Perry, Marion, Green and Paint, now pose problems of economics, due to their total enrollment through a full eight grade operation.

Let's look further. - Saturday, March 31, an official delegation made up of Miami Trace Citizens Committee members, Miami Trace School Board members and Miami Trace administrative personnel presented a report to the County Board of Education.

This report was intended to establish Miami Trace ability to set up High School facilities next fall for the 200 to 300 High School students who would not be attending Washington High School.

They explained that they would be able to handle the High School operation because they had found they had classroom space that was not being used.

By the way, you should know that this delegation first refused to make their report when they found that citizens of the Miami Trace District would be present. The meeting was completed only after their attention was called to the fact that all school board meetings must be open to the public at all times.

Last fall, Miami Trace officials asked for $442,000 which they said would be used to renovate and rehabilitate existing elementary schools.

They also asked for $1,200,000 to build a new 600 student High School.

These requests resulted from the report of the prior County Citizens Committee investigation.

During the week of March 21, a new 28-man Fact Finding Committee appointed by the Miami Trace Board began another investigation.

This latest committee contains many people who were members of the original Citizens Committee.

On March 23 a report was given to the press by Mr. Herbert Perrill, a member of the Miami Trace School Board, who accompanied the Fact Finders. Mr. Perrill is quoted as saying, "The three crowded schools were Bloomingburg, Madison Mills and Marion, with Bloomingburg being the most crowded." "The buildings and equipment were found to be in 'acceptable condition'."

Perrill said that some repairs were needed but that most of them could be classed as of a minor nature. It is further stated that the principal need was for improved lighting in all the buildings.

Let's analyze this information, in comparison with the request made last fall for $442,000.

Let's look at the request for $1,200,000 to build a high school for 600 students when this amount of money will build a High School for approximately 1,000 students.

How do these conflicting statements and conflicting requests sound to you?

Does this sound as if the type of investigation has been made that will afford the best possible school facilities for our children without the waste of family funds through excessive taxes?

Does this sound like the kind of investigation that can determine if the best facilities with the lowest cost to each tax payer, rural and city, through cooperation, is feasible and practical?

Ike's New Civil Rights Plan Labeled 'Grandstand Play'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Southern Democrats signalled a Senate fight today against a new Eisenhower civil rights program whose handling also brought objections from some backers of such bills.

"It looks as though they are putting it strictly into politics," declared Rep. Barratt O'Hara (D-Ill.), who contended the Justice Department had broken repeated pledges to talk over the program with interested House members before presenting it.

O'Hara is a member of an official bipartisan steering committee for civil rights legislation. The group claims to act for 40 to 50 House members of both parties.

Sen. Hill (D-Ala.) said Atty. Gen. Brownell's recommendations add up to "a political program proposed in an election year."

"The program deals with problems that can be solved only by the states and local communities," Hill added. "I shall oppose it vigorously."

One surprise in the program Brownell sent to the Capitol was for a law under which citizens who felt their civil rights had been infringed could bypass the states and go directly into a federal court. At present they must first exhaust all state remedies.

AS PRESIDENT Eisenhower had done earlier, Brownell urged that Congress create a bipartisan commission with subpoena powers to investigate individual civil rights grievances. He asked for establishment of a new civil rights division within the Justice Department.

He asked also for authority to initiate civil actions in alleged conspiracies to intimidate witnesses or to use Ku Klux Klan-type disguises to deprive citizens of their rights.

O'Hara, however, said: "If they really want effective civil rights legislation they can't play politics with it. This is a stab in the back for such legislation."

O'Hara contended that time after time arrangements were made for meetings between members of the steering committee and representatives of the Justice Department, and each time the justice representatives called them off. Rep. Reuss (D-Wis.), also a member of the group, voiced a similar complaint.

Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.) said Republicans were making a "grandstand play" about proposing new measures when he and others already have introduced such bills.

Dust Storms End In Plains States

CHICAGO (AP)—Dust storms diminished in the plains today, the gusty weather moving eastward and bringing rain and snow into the Mississippi Valley.

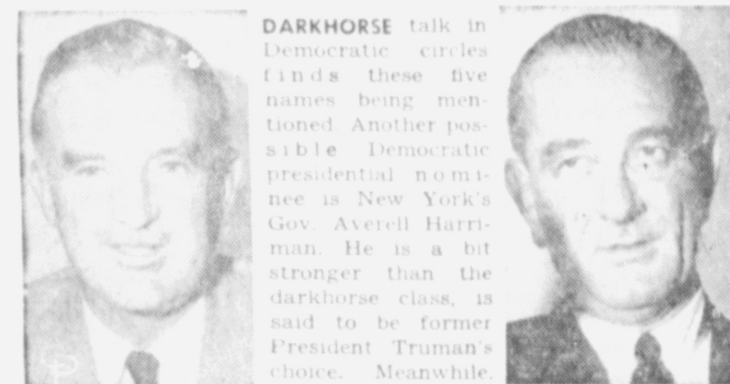

Snow fell in eastern sections of Kansas and Oklahoma. Falls at Emporia, Kan., measured 1 inch, bringing the total on the ground to 4 inches. Drenching rains doused wide areas of Arkansas, Mississippi and Missouri.

Chilly weather continued in most of the Great Lakes region, the plains states and in the east in Pennsylvania and New England.

Stevenson Admits Maybe He Should Stress Handshaking

CHICAGO (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson says that maybe he should have shaken more hands in Minnesota.

He conceded that Tuesday's Minnesota primary knocked him aside as front-runner for the Democratic presidential nomination.

But he said he will keep on running—"harder than ever"—in other state primaries and that he will go to the Democratic Convention in August seeking the No. 1 spot on the ticket.

He said he won't consider running for vice president on a ticket headed by Sen. Estes Kefauver, who beat him in the first primary where the two men collided actively and directly.

Kefauver won 26 of Minnesota's 30 convention delegate votes. Stevenson and his campaign manager James Finnegan blamed too hurried a campaign pace for the defeat in Minnesota.

ASKED WHETHER he should have shaken more hands, as Kefauver did, Stevenson said:

"There is no doubt handshaking develops a close identity between the shaker and the shaken. We traveled too fast. We had too many meetings. It would have been better to take a slower pace, cover the same ground in more time."

Stevenson said Kefauver "won the first round" and "it seems to me I am no longer the front runner. I gather that from the news papers."

He said his own plans are unchanged, and that so are his ideas. "I have tried to tell the people the truth," he said. "I always will."

"This may not be the way to win elections but it is, in my opinion, the way to conduct a political campaign in a democracy."

Stevenson said the fact so many persons asked for Democratic ballots in Minnesota "was a smash."

By JACOB MILLER

"And Enoch walked with God; and he was not, for God took him."

I think God has made this country his chosen nation, due to the fact that it was written into the Constitution, "All men are created equal, and that man can worship God according to the dictates of his own conscience."

Persecuted peoples from the Old world have found a Haven of Rest in these United States; many of our great men of today are descendants of the homeless refugees. There is an opportunity for every one, but success is not easy to obtain and by success I do not mean a large bank account.

The real people of our nation are those who are doing something for the uplift of his fellow-man. There are some of course, who are self-centered, that they get very little out of life. The ones who really get the joy out of living are those who are always trying to help those who are less fortunate.

What a feeling surges over any of us when we are able to give

ing repudiation of the present administration and a 2 to 1 endorsement of Democratic principles by the people of Minnesota."

He said if anyone should worry about the results it should be President Eisenhower—"Maybe more than me."

some poor fellow a lift-up out of the "slough of despond". One of the greatest of Christian acts is for some lonely couple to adopt some little boy and girl from some orphanage, and surround these children with love and devotion; by so doing, they will have little time for loneliness.

One of the saddest sights I ever witnessed was a little orphan sitting on the edge of a chair in a Children's Home, the very picture of despair. They had brought the little fellow in at the time I had called on business. That day as I looked at him I thought, "I wonder what thoughts are running through that little fellow's mind... his loss of his father and mother... what will they do to me here, I wonder if they will be good to me." That little four-year old face was the picture of despair.

You who are financially able and have no children, adopt one or two of these little waifs. What joy you will have and the reward will be, that in your old age, you will have someone who really cares for you, and when the grandchildren put their arms around your neck, you will receive your reward.

Some preachers' income are not always adequate but their rewards are great and they are moulding God-fearing citizens. Leave the church out of the country and then you have what they have in Russia.

The old pioneer preacher waded swamps and had few clothes or food, but in his zeal, he built up Christian communities, sometimes in an almost lawless community;

yes, we have the old preacher to thank for your present civilization and I believe that like Enoch, they walked with God.

Trapping In Michigan Still Pays Off In Cash

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Fur trapping, though less glamorous than in the days of the voyageurs, still takes nearly a million dollars a year from the backs of the mink, muskrat, raccoon and beaver in Michigan.

Many of the trappers are farm ers and their sons, who tend their traps after school.

The usual muskrat take each year is about a half million, the State Conservation Department reports. Muskrat pelts last year brought about $1 each.

Mink bring about $20 a pelt and Michigan trappers average about 15,000 of them a year. The raccoon kill averages about 150,000 yearly; the badger, 400, and the skunk, 2,000.

About 15,000 persons buy trapping licenses each year.

Re's New Civil Rights Plan Labeled 'Grandstand Play'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Southern Democrats signalled a Senate fight today against a new Eisenhower civil rights program whose handling also brought objections from some backers of such bills.

"It looks as though they are putting it strictly into politics," declared Rep. Barratt O'Hara (D-Mich.), who contended the Justice Department had broken repeated pledges to talk over the program with interested House members before presenting it.

O'Hara is a member of an official bipartisan steering committee for civil rights legislation. The group claims to act for 40 to 50 House members of both parties.

Sen. Hill (D-Ala.) said Atty. Gen. Brownell's recommendations add up to "a political program proposed in an election year."

"The program deals with problems that can be solved only by the states and local communities," Hill added, "I shall oppose it vigorously."

One surprise in the program Brownell sent to the Capitol was for a law under which citizens who felt their civil rights had been infringed could bypass the states and go directly into a federal court. At present they must first exhaust all state remedies.

AS PRESIDENT Eisenhower had done earlier, Brownell urged that Congress create a bipartisan commission with subpoena powers to investigate individual civil rights grievances. He asked for establishment of a new civil rights division within the Justice Department.

He asked also for authority to initiate civil actions in alleged conspiracies to intimidate witnesses or to use Ku Klux Klan-type disguises to deprive citizens of their rights.

O'Hara, however, said: "If they really want effective civil rights legislation they can't play politics with it. This is a stab in the back for such legislation."

O'Hara contended that time after time arrangements were made for meetings between members of the steering committee and representatives of the Justice Department, and each time the justice representatives called them off. Rep. Reuss (D-Wis.), also a member of the group, voiced a similar complaint.

Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.) said Republicans were making a "grandstand play" about proposing new measures when he and others already have introduced such bills.

Dust Storms End In Plains States

CHICAGO (AP)—Dust storms diminished in the plains today, the gusty weather moving eastward and bringing rain and snow into the Mississippi Valley.

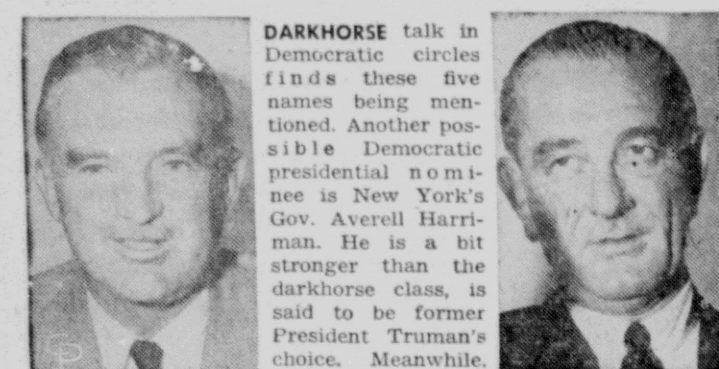

Snow fell in eastern sections of Kansas and Oklahoma. Falls at Emporia, Kan., measured 1 inch, bringing the total on the ground to 4 inches. Drenching rains doused wide areas of Arkansas, Mississippi and Missouri.

Chilly weather continued in most of the Great Lakes region, the plains states, and in the east in Pennsylvania and New England.

DARKHORSE talk in Democratic circles finds these five names being mentioned. Another possible Democratic presidential nominee is New York's Gov. Averell Harriman. He is a bit stronger than the darkhorse class, is said to be former President Truman's choice. Meanwhile, Adlai and Estes continue their primary tug-of-war. (International)

Stevenson Admits Maybe He Should Stress Handshaking

CHICAGO (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson says that maybe he should have shaken more hands in Minnesota.

He conceded that Tuesday's Minnesota primary knocked him aside as front-runner for the Democratic presidential nomination.

But he said he will keep on running—"harder than ever"—in other state primaries and that he will go to the Democratic Convention in August seeking the No. 1 spot on the ticket.

He said he won't consider running for vice president on a ticket headed by Sen. Estes Kefauver, who beat him in the first primary where the two men collided actively and directly.

Kefauver won 26 of Minnesota's 30 convention delegate votes.

Stevenson and his campaign manager James Finnegan blamed too hurried a campaign pace for the defeat in Minnesota.

ASKED WHETHER he should have shaken more hands, as Kefauver did, Stevenson said:

"There is no doubt handshaking develops a close identity between the shaker and the shakee."

"We traveled too fast. We had too many meetings. It would have been better to take a slower pace, cover the same ground in more time."

Stevenson said Kefauver "won the first round" and "it seems to me I am no longer the front-runner. I gather that from the news papers."

He said his own plans are unchanged, and that so are his ideas. "I have tried to tell the people the truth," he said. "I always will."

"This may not be the way to win elections but it is, in my opinion, the way to conduct a political campaign in a democracy."

Stevenson said the fact so many persons asked for Democratic ballots in Minnesota "was a smash

Memories

By JACOB MILLER

"And Enoch walked with God; and he was not, for God took him."

I think God has made this country his chosen nation, due to the fact that it was written into the Constitution, "All men are created equal, and that man can worship God according to the dictates of his own conscience."

Persecuted peoples from the Old world have found a Haven of Rest in these United States; many of our great men of today are descendants of the homeless refugees. There is an opportunity for everyone, but success is not easy to obtain and by success I do not mean a large bank account.

The real people of our nation are those who are doing something for the uplift of his fellow-man. There are some of course, who are self-centered, that they get very little out of life. The ones who really get the joy out of living are those who are always trying to help those who are less fortunate.

What a feeling surges over any of us when we are able to give

ing repudiation of the present administration and a 2 to 1 endorsement of Democratic principles by the people of Minnesota."

He said if anyone should worry about the results it should be President Eisenhower—"Maybe more than me."

some poor fellow a lift-out out of the "slough of despond". One of the greatest of Christian acts is for some lonely couple to adopt some little boy and girl from some orphanage, and surround these children with love and devotion; by so doing, they will have little time for loneliness.

One of the saddest sights I ever witnessed was a little orphan sitting on the edge of a chair in a Children's Home, the very picture of despair. They had brought the little fellow in at the time I had called on business. That day as I looked at him I thought, "I wonder what thoughts are running through that little fellow's mind... his loss of his father and mother... 'what will they do to me here, I wonder if they will be good to me.' That little four-year old face was the picture of despair."

You who are financially able and have no children, adopt one or two of these little waifs. What joy you will have and the reward will be, that in your old age, you will have someone who really cares for you, and when the grandchildren put their arms around your neck, you will receive your reward.

Some preachers' income are not always adequate but their rewards are great and they are moulding, God-fearing citizens. Leave the church out of the country and then you have what they have in Russia.

The old pioneer preacher waded swamps and had few clothes or food, but in his zeal, he built up Christian communities, sometimes in an almost lawless community;

yes, we have the old preacher to thank for your present civilization and I believe that like Enoch, they walked with God.

Trapping In Michigan Still Pays Off In Cash

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Fur trapping, though less glamorous than in the days of the voyageurs, still takes nearly a million dollars a year from the backs of the mink, muskrat, raccoon and beaver in Michigan.

Many of the trappers are farm ers and their sons, who tend their traps after school.

The usual muskrat take each year is about a half million, the State Conservation Department reports. Muskrat pelts last year brought about $1 each.

Mink bring about $20 a pelt and Michigan trappers average about 15,000 of them a year. The raccoon kill averages about 150,000 yearly; the badger, 400, and the skunk, 2,000.

About 15,000 persons buy trapping licenses each year.

Chief Says 'Certain Areas' May Not Get NATO Defense

COLOGNE, Germany (AP)—NATO's American commander in Europe says his forces might not be able to protect "certain areas" against invasion.

But Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, supreme Allied commander in Europe, also said Western air power could destroy an aggressor and would prove an "effective deterrent" to attack.

He made the statements in a signed article appearing today in the West German weekly newspaper Rheinischer Merkur. The article was titled, "Can Europe Be Defended?"

The editors said they got the article from the U. S. Information Agency in Duesseldorf, Germany.

It came after publication in Germany of reports quoting Gruenther as having said that the 15-nation North Atlantic Treaty Organization "would have to give up the area of the (West German) Federal Republic" if Soviet ground forces should attack and that its defense line must be in southwestern France.

The reports stirred criticism and questions from West Germany and the Netherlands. A spokesman at Gruenther's command post, supreme headquarters Allied powers in Europe near Paris, countered that they were a distortion of a briefing the general recently gave some 20 German correspondents.

Gruenther's article published to day said:

"We are in a position to destroy the enemy if he attacks on a large scale even if we may not be able to protect certain areas against an invasion."

It did not specify which areas these were.

It said that though West Germany's contribution of 12 divisions and 13,000 planes was not yet ready NATO countries were "not in deadly danger, because our far-reaching Air Force could defeat an aggressor."

The article spoke of Western air power as an effective deterrent and added:

"We expect to be able to maintain our air supremacy in the field of long-range and short-range combat missions, thus making any aggression so costly for an enemy that he will abstain from attacking."

The writer said of NATO that "peace is its only aim."

Higher Pay Scales For Teachers Urged

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—The national shortage of more than 200,000 public school teachers could be alleviated by salaries ranging from $5,000 to $9,000 a year. So says Carl J. Meigel of Chicago, president of the American Federation of Teachers.

The starting salary for a teacher with a bachelor's degree should be $5,000, he told a meeting of AFT local 1263, and teachers' careers should be permanent, rather than subject to annual hiring and firing "as they are now in most parts of the country."

8 School Districts In Ohio Tagged As In Need Of Funds

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—State Superintendent of Instruction R. M. Eyman Monday night asked the state school board to reserve $1,291,000 in state aid for construction of buildings in eight needy school districts.

The funds would come from the seven million dollars allowed for this purpose earlier this year by the Legislature. The board already has reserved $1,735,000 for eight other districts.

Eyman's recommendation, submitted to a board meeting, asked approval of tentative reservation of funds for the following districts:

Bethel Tate Local in Clermont County, $315,000; Crestwood Local in Portage County, $200,000; Jackson Local, Jackson County, $30,000; Jefferson Local, Madison County, $200,000; Scioto Local, Jackson County, $120,000; Southeastern Local, Ross County $84,000; Washington Local, Scioto County, $277,000, and Willard Exempted, Huron County, $65,000.

The board may act upon these recommendations when it reconvenes Tuesday.

The board also agreed to revise a proposed contract for a $75,000 school survey to meet the objections raised by the state controlling board.

School board president Robert Manchester of Canfield said the changes adopted were those recommended by Rep. J. Frank Mc-

Clure (R-Ashland) chairman of the House Finance Committee and a member of the controlling board.

McClure had said previously that the proposed survey failed to specify work required under the terms of a $100,000 appropriation to the new school board. The controlling board had refused at a previous meeting to release the money for the survey.

The board also adopted a resolution removing the State Library

Board from supervision of the Department of Education.

It takes 40 materials and 125 processes to make a pencil.

"Ah-h-h...beer at its golden best!"

The truth is that good golden Hudepohl starts out much the same as other fine beers. With quality ingredients . . . brewed with patience and skill. But then we do something different . . . What we do is a closely guarded secret. It's a special, costlier step in brewing . . . a finishing process. And what it does is make Hudepohl even brighter and more golden. So we named it Process 14-K. And that's why Hudepohl is more than just another fine beer. It's "14-K!" Which means . . . it's a beer at its golden best!

Chief Says 'Certain Areas' May Not Get NATO Defense

COLOGNE, Germany (AP)—NATO's American commander in Europe says his forces might not be able to protect "certain areas" against invasion.

But Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, supreme Allied commander in Europe, also said Western air power could destroy an aggressor and would prove an "effective deterrent" to attack.

He made the statements in a signed article appearing today in the West German weekly newspaper Rheinischer Merkur. The article was titled, "Can Europe Be Defended?"

The editors said they got the article from the U. S. Information Agency in Duesseldorf, Germany.

It came after publication in Germany of reports quoting Gruenther as having said that the 15-nation North Atlantic Treaty Organization "would have to give up the area of the (West German) Federal Republic" if Soviet ground forces should attack and that its defense line must be in southwestern France.

The reports stirred criticism and questions from West Germany and the Netherlands. A spokesman at Gruenther's command post, supreme headquarters Allied powers in Europe, near Paris, countered that they were a distortion of a briefing the general recently gave some 20 German correspondents.

Gruenther's article published today said:

"We are in a position to destroy the enemy if he attacks on a large scale even if we may not be able to protect certain areas against an invasion."

It did not specify which areas these were.

It said that though West Germany's contribution of 12 divisions and 13,000 planes was not yet ready, NATO countries were "not in deadly danger, because our far-reaching Air Force could defeat an aggressor."

The article spoke of Western air power as an effective deterrent and added:

"We expect to be able to maintain our air supremacy in the field of long-range and short-range combat missions, thus making any aggression so costly for an enemy that he will abstain from attacking."

The writer said of NATO that "peace is its only aim."

Higher Pay Scales For Teachers Urged

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—The national shortage of more than 300,000 public school teachers could be alleviated by salaries ranging from $5,000 to $9,000 a year. So says Carl J. Megel of Chicago, president of the American Federation of Teachers.

The starting salary for a teacher with a bachelor's degree should be $5,000, he told a meeting of AFT local 1263, and teachers' careers should be permanent, rather than subject to annual hiring and firing "as they are now in most parts of the country."

8 School Districts In Ohio Tagged As In Need Of Funds

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—State Superintendent of Instruction R. M. Eyman Monday night asked the state school board to reserve $1.291,000 in state aid for construction of buildings in eight needy school districts.

The funds would come from the seven million dollars allowed for this purpose earlier this year by the Legislature. The board already has reserved $1,735,000 for eight other districts.

Eyman's recommendation, submitted to a board meeting, asked approval of tentative reservation of funds for the following districts:

Bethel Tate Local in Clermont County, $315,000; Crestwood Local, Portage County, $200,000; Jackson Local, Jackson County, $30,000; Jefferson Local, Madison County, $200,000; Scioto Local, Jackson County, $120,000; Southeastern Local, Ross County $84,000; Washington Local, Scioto County, $277,000, and Willard Exempted, Huron County, $65,000.

The board may act upon these recommendations when it reconvenes Tuesday.

The board also agreed to revise a proposed contract for a $75,000 school survey to meet the objections raised by the state controlling board.

School board president Robert Manchester of Canfield said the changes adopted were those recommended by Rep. J. Frank Mc-

Clure (R-Ashland) chairman of the House Finance Committee and a member of the controlling board.

McClure had said previously that the proposed survey failed to specify work required under the terms of a $100,000 appropriation to the new school board. The controlling board had refused at a previous meeting to release the money for the survey.

The board also adopted a resolution removing the State Library

Board from supervision of the Department of Education.

It takes 40 materials and 12 processes to make a pencil.

"Speech Choir" Is At Rotary

"Our American Heritage" Wins Many Plaudits

A remarkable and inspiring presentation, quite properly entitled "Our American Heritage" before the Rotary Club membership and guests Tuesday at the Country Club, probably won the highest praise to be given any single program before the club in years.

The "Speech Choir" made up of members of the Dramatic Arts department of Washington High School, under direction of the talented department head, Thomas G. Mansell, was responsible for the program which Mansell had worked up especially for this occasion.

It was composed of famous words and excerpts of historic speeches touching high points of American history, with Mansell offering a beautiful introduction to explain "This Is America".

SOMETIMES in unison, sometimes individually, the 12 young students of the group really presented a moving performance, causing every one in the audience to depart with an upsurge of pride in their country and perhaps a little better understanding of true patriotism.

It was the unanimous comment of the audience, composed of the members and guests of the club, that this presentation by students of the high school here, representing both city and rural families, was an outstanding production and an example of the splendid work and cooperative effort being afforded through the Washington High School.

President Paul Dougherty in thanking the students and Mr Mansell declared that the production was "masterful and served as a refresher course in American history to those present".

William Clift of the April program committee, introduced Mansell.

AFTER THE close of the presentation, each of the 12 students taking part was individually presented amidst round after round of enthusiastic applause from the audience. They were Ronald Whitaker, Frank Miller, Dan Schlichter, Eddie Jones, John McWilliams, Sandy Rose, Wilma Brown, Caroline Crago, Natalie McLean, Judy Preston, Wanda Tracey, Jo Reiff.

The program itself in brief but forceful touches of reference to historic events, began with the voyage and discovery of America by Columbus, then led on through one after another of dramatic and outstanding phases of American history, such as the Patrick Henry speech, the influence of Thomas Paine, Washington, the first president, the period of the Alamo and the stand of Col. Travis, other intervals of history included were the tiring journey of emigrants on the

Oregon Trail, Lincoln and his Gettysburg address, Gen. Robert E. Lee's farewell address to his soldiers, the First World War and "Flanders Field", closing with a beautiful summary by the director — "Thank God For America".

Although it was a first presentation of this excellent patriotic program, it was suggested by many who heard it, to the director, Mansell, that if it could be presented in many other places it would be a welcome and needed addition in the entertainment field.

During the pre-program business session, Don Wood, head of the club youth committee presented two student guests from Washington High School. They were Robert Stackhouse and John Arnold, with the latter making a brief but pleasing response to their introduction.

THE ONLY visiting Rotarian was Wilson Moon of Greenfield while other guests were Rev. L. J.

Poe, new pastor of the Grace Methodist Church, with Ralph Penn Robert Walker of Portsmouth, candidate for the Republican nomination for Congress in this district, presented by Ray Brandenburg.

President Dougherty called attention to the recent organization meeting of the Washington Park Board from which B. M. (Mac) Marlin emerged as president and Michael Harrison as secretary.

Attention was called to the re-appearance at the club meeting of Walter Patton after a long stay in Florida where it was said that Walter was dragged away with difficulty from watching the "blond Mermaids" on the beaches.

James Neal Unable To Furnish Bond

James Neal, one of three prisoners brought back from Texas and Oklahoma by Sheriff and Mrs. Orland Hays, was unable to furnish $5,000 bond fixed by Judge R. L. Brubaker in Probate Court and was returned to the county jail to await further action of the court. His name was incorrectly given as Mrs. Neal, in an earlier report.

The other two prisoners brought back were Mrs. Wilma Long and Mrs. Marie Looney.

Mrs. Looney was given a hearing Tuesday but her case has not been disposed of.

Mrs. Long asked for a jury trial, furnished $4,000 bond, and her trial has been set for May 9. She is represented by Reed M. Winegardner.

Robison said medical hospital care for general relief patients in creased from $7,180,467 in 1953 to $11,896,006 last year.

He said the poor relief board, created by the last legislature, is continuing a study of the problem.

Zero Hour Near In Mideast

Fear Among Arabs Is Seen As Cause Of Possible War

Editor's Note: Following is the second in a series of articles dealing with the boiling Middle East where Arabs and Jews are at swords points.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — In the countries surrounding Israel, bitterness, frustration and a vast mass inferiority complex have created a new hero of Pan-Arabism. Millions are turning to Egypt's Gamal Abdel Nasser as their leader.

Why has Egypt's young and impatient dictator had so tremendous an impact? An influential, pro-Arab leader pointed to the tiny spot on the map that is Israel.

"Do you want the truth? Do you want to know why our world may drag yours into war? The truth is," he said, "we are afraid."

The speaker has been a long-time friend of the United States. But the unpopularity of the United States in this part of the world is enormous and no Arab says publicly he is America's friend.

"You ask about the promise of the Egyptian revolution. Do you want to save that revolution for the future of the Egyptians? Then make us so we are not afraid, so we will lose this terrible inferiority feeling of ours. Then, being unafraid, we can ignore the menace of Israel, knowing we are safe, and turn to bettering ourselves."

Two great social revolutions are getting under way in the Arab world — one in Iraq, where oil money is being plowed into development — and the other in Egypt. Brought to flower, this movement could go far to stabilize the Middle East. Both revolutions are menaced by the shadow of war.

Most Arab eyes are turned toward Egypt — even the eyes of the Iraqis. On the wave of indignation against the United States, the Arab world has pushed Prime Minister Nasser to a place of imposing leadership. But he is at once the leader and the captive of Arab ambitions. To remain the leader he must ride with the tide of frustration.

appears as a potential conqueror, but to western eyes he resembles a man on a bicycle who cannot stop what he has put in motion without danger of falling.

Nasser is asserting his own and Egypt's leadership of the Arab world, but it is far from secure. A decisive defeat by Israel in an opening battle of renewed war could topple Nasser from his pinnacle. Other Arab leaders are jealous and wait the chance to challenge him. To keep his leadership Nasser has seized upon the international situation. He asserts the idea of Arab "unity" by assailing the French and aiding rebel in North Africa. He expresses Arab frustration with the West by assailing the British as colonialists and encouraging anti-Americanism.

At the time of the Egyptian revolution three years ago, Nasser seemed to the world a young idealist motivated by noble intentions toward Egypt's long suffering masses. The revolution still bears great promise and noble designs brought a change.

The change became pronounced after February 1955, when the Israelis launched a heavy attack on Egyptians in the Gaza strip of Palestine. An attack for which the United Nations condemned Israel. It was one of many apparently punitive and warning attacks to keep the Egyptians in their place. Egypt sought arms from the United States, but didn't get them.

"Time after time," my informant said angrily, "Israel humiliated us. Hardly a day goes by that a punitive expedition of some kind is not staged. The Palestinian Arab sees his own orange orchard and is forbidden by Israeli guns to pick his own fruit. Bitterness grows on bitterness, rage on frustration.

"We suspect, with good reason, that as things stand right now Israel could throw us back again unless we have outside help. How long can we stand this when the whole existence of a Zionist state created by the United States and Britain in our midst, outrages our sense of justice?"

Even the most pro-American of Arabs blames the United States for their humiliation.

"I thank God," said one of them, "for Soviet intervention in the Middle East. It has awakened the whole world to our cause."

The Arabs have a proverb: The enemy of my enemy is my friend. Nasser got arms from the Soviet bloc. The Arabs hail this with joy and cock their ears toward Cairo. Thousands of Arabs clustered about radios in their homes and coffee shops nod their heads eagerly at the words of Egypt's new leader who "stands up to the imperialists." For eight years they have smoldered with hate for the tiny country carved from Palestine, with its new population of Europeans skilled in war and technical know-how. On most issues Arab unity is a myth, but on Israel there is unity.

Now Egypt's bid for leadership is taking priority over the peace-time aims of the revolution. The price of leadership was dangerous alliance with the Communist bloc. If war came, the revolution would be lost for a long time to come, and if the war spread, as many fear it would, the Arab world might find itself swallowed by Soviet domination. World War III would be around the corner.

The Census Bureau predicts 16 million Americans over 64 in 1960.

About 200 different kinds of mosquitoes can transmit malaria.

Mental Tests Due Accused Wapak Slayer

WAPAKONETA (AP) — James Thornton, 17, of Hazel Park, Mich., who with two other Hazel Park youths is accused of the Jan. 24 murder of a tavernkeeper near here, today was ordered committed to Lima State Hospital.

Auglaize County Juvenile Judge Thomas A. Danaher made the commitment after a hearing on a delinquency charge.

Thornton, with Bernard Harris, 18, and Willie Thomas, 20, is being held for the slaying of Charles Stolzenbach, 54, in an attempted holdup of his tavern.

Harris and Thomas also face additional charges of auto theft and jail-breaking.

They escaped March 21 from

Auglaize County jail with another inmate, Jerry Claus, 18, of Muncie, Ind., and were captured the next morning in Indiana.

If Thornton is found sane, Judge Danaher can bind him over to the next term of the grand jury. This would continue the case until after Oct. 1, since his observation period would end during the May term of the jury.

The cases of Harris and Thomas will probably be held until October also, since Common Pleas Judge Jacob T. Koenig upheld a prosecution motion asking joint trials.

Fear Among Arabs Is Seen As Cause Of Possible War

Editor's Note: Following is the second in a series of articles dealing with the boiling Middle East where Arabs and Jews are at swords points.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — In the countries surrounding Israel, bitterness, frustration and a vast mass inferiority complex have created a new hero of Pan-Arabism. Millions are turning to Egypt's Gamal Abdel Nasser as their leader.

Why has Egypt's young and impatient dictator had so tremendous an impact? An influential, pro-American Arab leader pointed to the tiny spot on the map that is Israel.

"Do you want the truth? Do you want to know why our world may drag yours into war? The truth is," he said, "we are afraid."

The speaker has been a long-time friend of the United States. But the unpopularity of the United States in this part of the world is enormous and no Arab says publicly he is America's friend.

"You ask about the promise of the Egyptian revolution. Do you want to save that revolution for the future of the Egyptians? Then make us so we are not afraid, so we will lose this terrible inferiority feeling of ours. Then, being unafraid, we can ignore the menace of Israel, knowing we are safe, and turn to bettering our selves."

Two great social revolutions are getting under way in the Arab world — one in law, where oil money is being plowed into development — and the other in Egypt. Brought to flower, this movement could go far to stabilize the Middle East. Both revolutions are menaced by the shadow of war.

Most Arab eyes are turned toward Egypt — even the eyes of the Iraqis. On the wave of indignation against the United States, the Arab world has pushed Prime Minister Nasser to a place of imposing leadership. But he is at once the leader and the captive of Arab ambitions. To remain the leader he must ride with the tide of frustration.

Some call him the lucky dictator, one for whom circumstances worked miracles in a country which calls itself the land loved by God. In a part of the world known for his fickleness he appears as a potential conqueror, but to western eyes he resembles a man on a bicycle who cannot stop what he has put in motion without danger of falling.

Nasser is asserting his own and Egypt's leadership of the Arab world, but it is far from secure. A decisive defeat by Israel in an opening battle of renewed war could topple Nasser from his pinnacle. Other Arab leaders are jealous and wait the chance to challenge him. To keep his leadership Nasser has seized upon the international situation. He asserts the idea of Arab "unity" by assailing the French and aiding rebels in North Africa. He expresses Arab frustration with the West by assailing the British as colonialists and encouraging anti-Americanism.

At the time of the Egyptian revolution three years ago, Nasser

seemed to the world a young idealist motivated by noble intentions toward Egypt's long suffering masses. The revolution still bears great promise and noble designs brought a change.

The change became pronounced after February 1955, when the Israelis launched a heavy attack on Egyptians in the Gaza strip of Palestine, an attack for which the United Nations condemned Israel. It was one of many apparently punitive and warning attacks to keep the Egyptians in their place. Egypt sought arms from the United States, but didn't get them.

"Time after time," my informant said angrily, "Israel humiliated us. Hardly a day goes by that a punitive expedition of some kind is not staged. The Palestinian Arab sees his own orange orchard and is forbidden by Israeli guns to pick his own fruit. Bitterness grows on bitterness, rage on frustration.

"We suspect, with good reason, that as things stand right now Israel could throw us back again unless we have outside help. How long can we stand this when the whole existence of a Zionist state, created by the United States and Britain in our midst, outrages our sense of justice?"

Even the most pro-American of Arabs blames the United States for their humiliation.

"I thank God," said one of them, "for Soviet intervention in the Middle East. It has awakened the whole world to our cause."

The Arabs have a proverb: The enemy of my enemy is my friend. Nasser got arms from the Soviet bloc. The Arabs hail this with joy and cock their ears toward Cairo. Thousands of Arabs clustered about radios in their homes and coffee shops nod their heads eagerly at the words of Egypt's new leader who "stands up to the imperialists." For eight years they have smoldered with hate for the tiny country carved from Palestine, with its new population of Europeans skilled in war and technical know-how. On most issues Arab unity is a myth, but on Israel there is unity.

Now Egypt's bid for leadership is taking priority over the peace-time aims of the revolution. The price of leadership was dangerous alliance with the Communist bloc. If war came, the revolution would be lost for a long time to come, and if the war spread, as many fear it would, the Arab world might find itself swallowed by Soviet domination. World War III would be around the corner.

Mental Tests Due Accused Wapak Slayer

WAPAKONETA (AP) — James Thornton, 17, of Hazel Park, Mich., who with two other Hazel Park youths is accused of the Jan. 24 murder of a tavernkeeper near here, today was ordered committed to Lima State Hospital.

Auglaize County Juvenile Judge Thomas A. Danaher made the commitment after a hearing on a delinquency charge.

Thornton, with Bernard Harris, 18, and Willie Thomas, 20, is being held for the slaying of Charles Stolzenbach, 54, in an attempted holdup of his tavern.

Harris and Thomas also face additional charges of auto theft and jail-breaking.

They escaped March 21 from

Auglaize County jail with another inmate, Jerry Claus, 18, of Muncie, Ind., and were captured the next morning in Indiana.

If Thornton is found sane, Judge Danaher can bind him over to the next term of the grand jury. This would continue the case until after Oct. 1, since his observation period would end during the May term of the jury.

The cases of Harris and Thomas will probably be held until October also, since Common Pleas Judge Jacob T. Koenig upheld a prosecution motion asking joint trials.

"IT'S SO EASY TO PLACE A WANT AD."

Red China Sells Food Abroad As Hungry Natives Eat Leaves

By F. K. WU
Central Press Correspondent
HONG KONG—In desperate efforts to obtain foreign exchange to sustain its program of war preparations, Communist China is shipping considerable foodstuffs and other goods to Hong Kong for local consumption and re-export.

It is estimated in commercial circles that the Peiping regime collects every month through the Bank of China here about $2,500,000 for the sale of Chinese produce. The goods dumped here consist of livestock, poultry, eggs, fish, fruits, vegetables, canned food, electrical goods, industrial chemicals, and paper.

All prices are marked down in order to compete with goods from elsewhere. As a result the cost of living is lower than that of Tokyo, Manila, Singapore and elsewhere in the Far East, although this is not intended in the dumping policy of the Chinese Communists.

Eggs are as cheap as 25 cents a dozen and beef steak is not more than 60 cents a pound. Vegetables are priced at four cents a pound. Canned food is generally 20 percent cheaper in prices than those imported from the United States and Australia.

AT ONE TIME there was fear here that Communist China would not ship foodstuffs to Hong Kong, which depends on food supplies from the outside. Now they are coming in large quantities just for the purpose of realizing the Hong Kong dollar which can be converted into American currency at about 17 cents.

The South China Morning Post reflecting the opinion of the British merchant class has been urging more trade with Communist China in order to prop up the sagging economy here. Then the Communist trade authorities obliged by letting open the flood-gates of exports, submerging and even winning out local agricultural produce and light industries.

Many cattle breeders and farmers in the New Territories, the rural sections of Hong Kong, are ruined by the heavy import of pigs, cows, chickens, ducks and vegetables from Kwangtung province in south China. Local factories turning out towels, bed sheets and cotton goods are forced to shut down owing to the presence of similar products from Shanghai at much lower prices.

Thousands of farmers and factory workers in Hong Kong have been thrown out of work since the beginning of summer, while the worst is yet to come. Factories in Canton are turning out electric torches and enamelwares in larger quantities and will soon be in a position to compete successfully with Hong Kong products.

It is obvious that the cry for more trade with Red China has turned out to be a boomerang.

While the people in mainland China are eating tree leaves and roots in lieu of rice, this staple food is exported to Hong Kong and elsewhere at prices lower than those in Thailand. Chinese in Hong Kong prefer rice grown around the Canton delta as it tastes better than that imported from Bangkok. Communist China is scraping the barrel bottoms for all available rice for export despite a growing famine throughout the country.

RED CHINA also has been successful in competing with Canada and Norway in the sale of newsprint in the local markets. Chinese products are cheaper by about 10 percent and that is a big difference in the long run.

Because of its lower prices, even some of the bitterly anti-Communist vernacular newspapers are using Chinese newsprint manufactured in Canton and Kirin in Manchuria. There is not much choice for newspaper publishers in view of the present depression brought about by the sharp decrease in Communist purchases through this port.

A paper merchant said that Chinese newsprint is of such superb quality he believed it was manufactured not in China proper but imported from Western Europe and satellite countries on a barter arrangement.

CHINESE native goods for barter are simply levied from the farmers and other producers as taxes, and at most they are requisitioned at very favorable prices for the Communist authorities, the merchant explained.

Government agencies in Canton now allow lower prices for goods consigned to Hong Kong than elsewhere, so that merchants here may re-export them at a small profit.

MORE FISHING than fish as the trout season opens in New Jersey as the usual gang shows up at Saxon Falls, near Hackettstown. The fish didn't have much of a chance but, for that matter, neither did the fishermen. (International)

Redlegs Take Smith Back From Cards

This concession is made in favor of Hong Kong exporters who may be asked to raise emergency loans to the Communist trading corporations, which need cash to pay for motor fuel, metals and other strategic goods.

Such goods are imported into Communist China through Lufang or Garbage End, a small island on the estuary of the Canton river about 35 miles northwest of Hong Kong, and at Snake Mouth, a small coastal town in Pao An county about 25 miles northwest of this city. Other shipments are consigned to Whampoa near Canton, Foochow, Shanghai and Tientsin.

Nowadays big orders rarely come through Hong Kong, which used to enjoy prosperity through entrepot trade. Therefore, this British crown colony is in the midst of trade recession. The United Nations embargo on exports to Red China has little effect here, since the Peiping regime is committed to buy goods direct from Europe and CINCINNATI P.—The Cincinnati Reds yesterday got relief pitcher Frank Smith back from the St. Louis Cardinals on waivers.

It was the latest development in a two-year deal involving Smith, third baseman Ray Jablonski and pitcher Gerry Staley.

Prior to the 1955 season, the Cards gave up Jablonski and Staley to get Smith. The deal didn't turn out well for either team. Smith was ineffective. Jablonski didn't hit and his fielding again was bad, so he eventually finished up the 1955 season in the minors. Staley didn't do well with the Reds either and was sold to the New York Yankees late in the season.

This year Jablonski has been hitting and fielding well. Staley still is with the Yankees. The Reds

Red China Sells Food Abroad As Hungry Natives Eat Leaves

By F. K. WU
Central Press Correspondent
HONG KONG—In desperate efforts to obtain foreign exchange to sustain its program of war preparations, Communist China is shipping considerable foodstuffs and other goods to Hong Kong for local consumption and re-export.

It is estimated in commercial circles that the Peiping regime collects every month through the Bank of China here about $2,500,000 for the sale of Chinese produce. The goods dumped here consist of livestock, poultry, eggs, fish, fruits, vegetables, canned food, electrical goods, industrial chemicals and paper.

All prices are marked down in order to compete with goods from elsewhere. As a result the cost of living is lower than that of Tokyo, Manila, Singapore and elsewhere in the Far East, although this is not intended in the dumping policy of the Chinese Communists.

Eggs are as cheap as 25 cents a dozen and beef steak is not more than 60 cents a pound. Vegetables are priced at four cents a pound. Canned food is generally 30 percent cheaper in prices than those imported from the United States and Australia.

AT ONE TIME there was fear here that Communist China would not ship foodstuffs to Hong Kong, which depends on food supplies from the outside. Now they are coming in large quantities just for the purpose of realizing the Hong Kong dollar which can be converted into American currency at about 17 cents.

The South China Morning Post reflecting the opinion of the British merchant class has been urging more trade with Communist China in order to prop up the sagging economy here. Then the Communist trade authorities oblige by letting open the flood-gates of exports, submerging and even wiping out local agricultural produce and light industries.

Many cattle breeders and farmers in the New Territories, the rural sections of Hong Kong, are ruined by the heavy import of pigs, cows, chickens, ducks and vegetables from Kwangtung province in South China. Local factories turning out towels, bed sheets and cotton goods are forced to shut down owing to the presence of similar products from Shanghai at much lower prices.

Thousands of farmers and factory workers in Hong Kong have been thrown out of work since the beginning of summer, while the worst is yet to come. Factories in Canton are turning out electric torches and enamelware in larger quantities and will soon be in a position to compete successfully with Hong Kong products.

It is obvious that the cry for more trade with Red China has turned out to be a boomerang.

While the people in mainland China are eating tree leaves and roots in lieu of rice, this staple food is exported to Hong Kong and elsewhere at prices lower than those in Thailand. Chinese in Hong Kong prefer rice grown around the Canton delta as it tastes better than that imported from Bangkok. Communist China is scraping the barrel bottoms for all available rice for export despite a growing famine throughout the country.

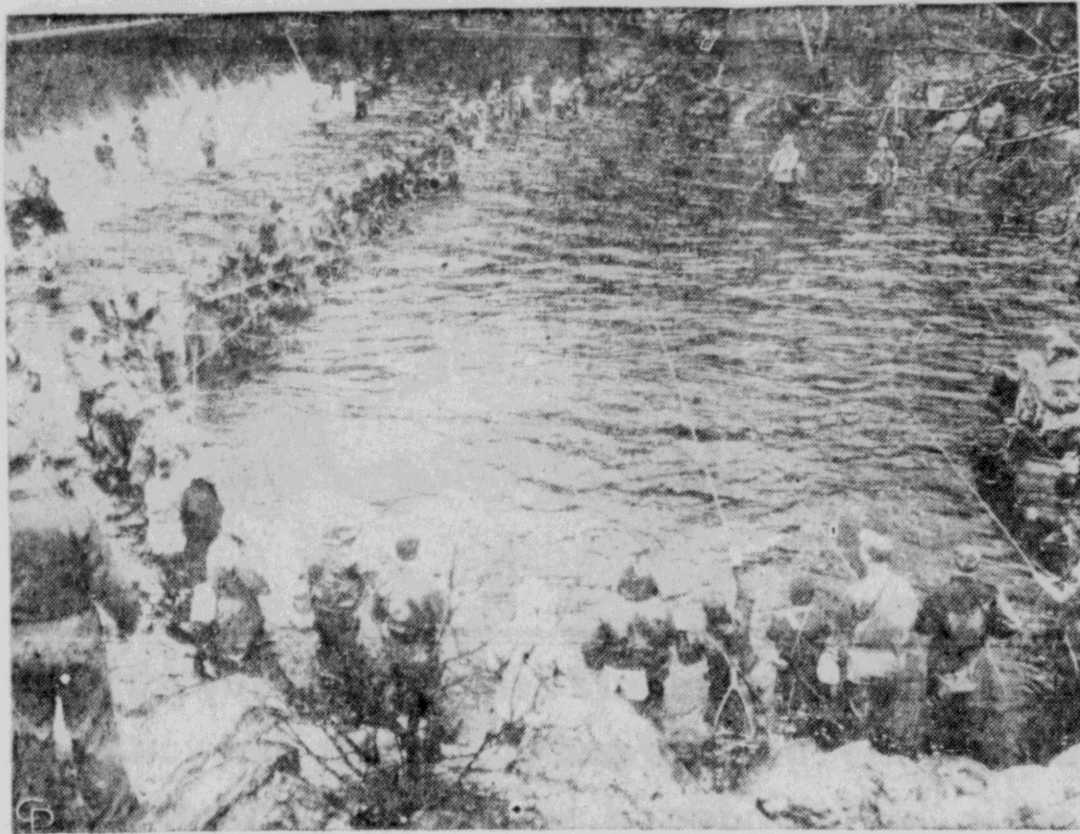

RED CHINA also has been successful in competing with Canada and Norway in the sale of newspaper in the local markets. Chinese products are cheaper by about 10 percent and that is a big difference in the long run.

Because of its lower prices, even some of the bitterly anti-Communist vernacular newspapers are using Chinese newsprint manufactured in Canton and Kirin in Manchuria. There is not much choice for newspaper publishers in view of the present depression brought about by the sharp decrease in Communist purchases through this port.

A paper merchant said that Chinese newsprint is of such superb quality he believed it was manufactured not in China proper but imported from Western Europe and satellite countries on a barter arrangement.

CHINESE native goods for barter are simply levied from the farmers and other producers as taxes, and at most they are requisitioned at very favorable prices for the Communist authorities, the merchant explained.

Government agencies in Canton now allow lower prices for goods consigned to Hong Kong than elsewhere, so that merchants here may re-export them at a small profit.

MORE FISHING than fish as the trout season open in New Jersey as the usual gang shows up at Saxon Falls, near Hackettstown. The fish didn't have much of a chance but, for that matter, neither did the fishermen. (International)

This concession is made in favor of Hong Kong exporters who may be asked to raise emergency loans to the Communist trading corporations, which need cash to pay for motor fuel, metals and other strategic goods.

Such goods are imported into Communist China through Lufsa or Garbage End, a small island on the estuary of the Canton river about 35 miles northwest of Hong Kong, and at Snake Mouth, a small coastal town in Pao An county about 25 miles northwest of this city. Other shipments are consigned to Whampoa near Canton, Foochow, Shanghai and Tientsin.

Nowadays big orders rarely come through Hong Kong, which used to enjoy prosperity through entrepot trade. Therefore, this British crown colony is in the midst of trade recession. The United Nations embargo on exports to Red China has little effect here, since the Peiping regime is committed to buy goods direct from Europe and Hong Kong.

Redlegs Take Smith Back From Cards

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Redlegs yesterday got relief pitcher Frank Smith back from the St. Louis Cardinals on waivers.

It was the latest development in a two-year deal involving Smith, third baseman Ray Jablonski and pitcher Gerry Staley.

Prior to the 1955 season the Cards gave up Jablonski and Staley to get Smith. The deal didn't turn out well for either team. Smith was ineffective. Jablonski didn't hit and his fielding again was bad, so he eventually finished up the 1955 season in the minors. Staley didn't do well with the Reds either and was sold to the New York Yankees late in the season.

This year Jablonski has been hitting and fielding well. Staley still is with the Yankees. The Reds

TV Network Shuns Critics, Follows Preference Of Public

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP)—On Broadway you pay $6 to learn whether you think a drama critic's judgment of a play is sound. On television you merely have to twist a dial.

In the theater, critics hold the power of life or death over a play. But what has been most popular with the public in television this season, according to the audience rating systems, has not always been most popular with the critics.

CBS-TV programming plans for next season, which were leaked recently, indicate that if a line were to be drawn between public popularity and critical popularity the network is on the side of the public.

About a dozen new filmed half-hour weekly series are planned, slotted or in the making at CBS. They run the immemorial gamut of filmed half-hour weekly series — with some off-beat themes thrown in: crime, comedy, adventure and so forth. There always will be room for such pleasant events as "I Love Lucy" and the Phil Silvers Show. But by the time CBS finishes placing all its half-hour shows, basically stereotypes of other half-hour shows, is there going to be room for much else?

It may seem unfair to pre-judge. But pre-judgment is necessary if a heavily committed policy from CBS seems certain of financial success. It is increasingly apparent that sponsors like film; they feel they can control its direction without hassling with writers and directors as often happens on live dramatic shows.

In its policy, obviously based on close analysis of its current success among "the top ten," CBS seems to be saying that the public wants to be amused and can be easily amused. But to this critic the situations, emotions and ideas of the weekly half-hour filmed show are becoming increasingly limited. A TV viewing public with rapidly maturing tastes will yawn at the stereotyped half-hour show in time.

The basic concept of good television is that it's essentially a live medium. Live means living, growing, inquisitive, experimental, adaptive and eager for change.

Let's hope that CBS has not finished announcing its plans for next year.

Wright Field To Get Costly Nuclear Gear

DAYTON (AP)—The Air Force today announced plans for a $712 million nuclear reactor for use in testing materials and systems for nuclear-powered aircraft.

The reactor will be a facility of the Wright Air Development Center (WADC) at nearby Wright-Fatterson Air Force Base.

The 10 megawatt (10 million watt) facility was announced by Lt. Gen. Thomas S. Power, commander of the Air Research and Development Command at Baltimore, Md., parent organization of WADC.

Gen. Power said design of the facility is virtually complete, and said construction will start in June. Completion is expected by January 1958.

Gen. Power described the project this way:

The reactor will be water-cooled and a 125,000-gallon "swimming pool" will be part of the shielding.

The entire reactor complex will be housed in a specially designed gas-tight cylindrical steel shell—set partly below ground in a heavy gas-tight and waterproof foundation. Control rooms, offices and test areas will be situated near the steel shell. This structure will be connected by underground tunnel to a "high level radiation building" where "hot" materials will be handled after testing, and to a "waste storage and treatment plant."

Columbiana Jury Calls City Aides

LISBON (AP)—Officials of the present and past city administrations at East Liverpool have been subpoenaed by Columbiana County Prosecutor James L. MacDonald in a grand jury probe.

Several members of the city's police department have been accused of burglary. Among those called yesterday were Mayor Arnold W. Devon and Safety Service Director William C. Heasley and their predecessors, former Mayor E. Allen McKeever and his director, Thomas D. Enochs.

LONG-TIME RESIDENTS of the Snyder-Lamosa-Midland-San Angelo area of Texas called it "the worst disaster in history." They were referring to one of the dust storms plaguing the state. The photo is looking directly down a tree shelter belt. Drifts of sand cover ditches and extend onto the road's pavement. Even distinct details of nearby objects are blotted out. (International Soundphoto)

Springfield Blaze Fells 8 Firemen

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—A fire and explosion at a two-story frame residence here sent eight firemen to the hospital yesterday.

Fire Chief Willard Compton said the two-alarm blaze apparently started in a combination photography darkroom and chemical laboratory in the basement of the eight-room house.

Four of the firemen were treated and released at a Springfield hospital, but the other four were detained for treatment of superficial burns and smoke inhalation.

McCormack Backed By Boston Council

BOSTON (AP)—The Boston City Council has proposed House Majority Leader McCormack (D-Mass.) for the Democratic presidential nomination.

A resolution passed last night endorsed McCormack and cited him for devoting his great talents to the economic and social improvement of his fellow man in all walks of life and being unstint district but for all mankind."

Dinah Shore Insisting She Doesn't Want Show Changed

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Dinah Shore has amassed many friends for her sprightly 15-minute songfest that appears on NBC twice weekly. But this year she tried one hour-long show in the Tuesday at 8 spot. The program was a hit and she's doing another tonight. Her co-stars are Dean Martin, doing his first single on network TV, and Marge and Gower Champion. Gower is directing the show.

Meanwhile, there is much talk about Dinah's doing as many as 26 hour shows next year and scuttling her 15-minute tour.

Catching her breath between rehearsals, she said: "My trouble is that I don't like to change. It took months of talking to get me to move from one record company to another."

"It took all kinds of persuading to get me to move out of Enco. George (Montgomery, her hubby) argued that it took me an hour and a half to get home every night, but I still said I didn't want to move. Now we live in Beverly Hills and life is much, much simpler."

"I always like to keep things the way they are. That's why I want to hold onto the 15-minute show."

Another factor she has considered how much the added work would interfere with her home life. Her present schedule is so arranged that she quits work at 5 p. m. and can get home to her two young children before bed time.

"Perhaps I could still work on that schedule," she remarked. "But a bigger show would be more to think about. And you can't just quit work and leave it behind when you go home."

As with the other changes in her life, she'll probably submit to the hour show and no doubt make a big success with it. The trend in network thinking has been away from the 15-minute song segments, especially since the success of Perry Como in switching to the hour-long weekly variety program. The nets aim to get more mileage out of their name singers.

SPRING SUNSHINE

Sunshine has such a good effect Upon all living things; Upon the flowers, the grass, the trees—

To humans joy it brings; Birds sing sweetly, flit here and there; Glad children shout and play; New energy, desire, it gives, It drives away dull care; Then we think of vacation time Of planting grains and flowers; Of picnics and of trips afar— And many happy hours; And then we think of cleaning time

And mowing of the lawn; The sunshine has gone under cloud Some of the joy is gone.

Bosox Display Power In Romp Over Phillies

Pinky Higgins' Crew Clobbers Foe 21-1 In Exhibition Tilt

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS You've got to figure Pinky Higgins as the world's No. 1 pessimist if the skipper of the Boston Red Sox didn't eat his breakfast with a smile this morning.

Who's going to frown when his athletes pound major league pitching for 24 hits, five of them homers—and 21 runs, even in an exhibition game? How's any manager going to hold back a grin when the two big question marks on his pitching staff look just fine?

The Red Sox did all of that Tuesday in a frolicking, three-touch-down romp over the Philadelphia Phillies. The final count was 21-1.

Saul Rogovin, an American League castoff, was the victim. He lasted just 2 1-3 innings, giving up 15 hits—including solo homers by Jim Piersall and Jackie Jensen and Ted Williams' three-run poke. The Red Sox scored seven in the second and eight in the third.

The best news for Higgins, however, was the continued "comeback" of Mel Parnell and Frank Baumann. They represent Boston's southpaw strength on the mound. Parnell, a sad case since 1954, walked four and gave three hits but wasn't in any danger for his five innings. His only lapse was a home run ball to Del Ennis.

A sound Parnell would be money in the bank for the Red Sox. Mel, who will be 34 in June, won 21 for Boston in 1953 and shut out the New York Yankees four times. But he suffered a broken wrist in April 1954, and hasn't been the same since.

Baumann, the bonus rookie who hurt his throwing arm in the service, was still a bit wild—walking two and hitting a batter, but fanned two in his one-hit, four-inning chore.

Rain again cut the exhibition schedule—cancelling the Baltimore-Chicago game, St. Louis-Chicago White Sox and Brooklyn-Milwaukee games.

Elston Howard homered and tripled as the New York Yankees swung for 15 hits and defeated Dallas of the Texas League 6-3. Whitey Ford went six innings for the Yanks and was tagged for seven hits and all the runs.

Mickey Mantle made his first starting appearance since re-injuring a ham-string muscle March 28 and got a single in three trips. Manager Casey Stengel says Mick will open the season in center field.

Pinch hits by a pair of second-line, left-handed hitting catchers won the only other games played. Joe Ginsberg delivered a two-run homer for Kansas City in the ninth off Red Munger to give the A's a 4-2 decision over Pittsburgh.

Lou Berberet came through with a two-run single in the ninth to bring Washington from behind in a 9-8 victory over the Cincinnati Redlegs.

Cleveland and the New York Giants were not scheduled.

Milwaukee flag hopes dipped with the announcement that Gene Conley, the big "if" for the Braves, won't be ready to pitch for "four or six" weeks. The 6-9 righthander, nursing an inflamed shoulder tendon, was packed off for a two-week workout with Milwaukee's Jacksonville, Fla., farm club.

Dodds Hopeful Yankees Can Top Barrier

WHEATON, Ill. (P)—Gil Dodds, one of America's top milers a decade ago and now a successful track coach, sees no reason why Americans can't better the four-minute mile.

"Our fellows who are good never have a chance to reach maturity," said the one-time world record holder.

"Glenn Cunningham ran some of his greatest races after he was 30," said Dodds, "but nowadays they quit too soon."

Dodds, better known as the "Flying Parson" when he was the toast of American milers, opens his 10th season as Wheaton track coach on Saturday on a new $15,000 cinder oval which he feels "is one of the top tracks I've seen."

Dodds ran as an amateur until 1948 when he was 29 and then continued to run in exhibitions through 1953.

He set a world indoor record of 4:06.4 in 1944 and later ran a 4:06.1. Some of his feats included 23 straight mile victories and running 17 races under 4:10, a feat accomplished by no other miler at that time.

"We have some good milers in this country," continued Dodds, "and they can become better if they don't quit."

Dodds singled out Fred Dwyer of Villanova, Ted Wheeler of Iowa and we have some good runners on the West Coast."

Wheeler has won seven straight miles this year and took the Bankers' Mile in the Chicago Relays last month in 4:07.5.

Patricia Gabriel Tebbetts, youngest of three girls in the Birdie Tebbetts family, was named after Gabe Paul, vice president of the Cincinnati Redlegs Birdie manages Cincinnati.

Diamond Opener Set for Friday

Weather Delays Their Early Play

Ill onions department, through a series of tricks and chances, the Washington C. H. High School baseball team is now set to open its season on Friday the 13th.

It's all a long and very complicated story but, well, here it is anyway.

Way back weeks ago, in what seems now like the dark ages, the Lions were set to open their season March 29 here with the boys from Frankfort. A few days before the game, it was called off—officials agreed to reschedule it for May 7.

Then the Lions' opening date was April 6, against Wilmington, there. At the last minute, the game was called off because of wet grounds, officials said, and the two coaches agreed to try again later.

This meant they were scheduled to play an opening game against Greenfield there last Tuesday. Once again, at the last minute, the game was called off, called off "Rain," said the officials, and decided to have the two teams play each other later in the season.

Which all adds up to the fact that now the Lions are set to take Hillsboro here, on Friday the 13th, for their opening game.

Are the boys worried? Not in the least, they say. In the first place, they're not superstitious, and in the second place, they'll be playing on their home diamond, at least, won't they. They're ready to dive into the Indians and show 'em what for just as if it were any other day.

Er, that is, if the game isn't called off.

Dartmouth has been in the NCAA basketball tournament five times. The Crusaders first played in the tourney in 1941.

Aging Feller Given Chance With Tribe

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (P)—What will the Cleveland Indians find for old Bob Feller to do this year, the 20th anniversary of his joining the Tribe?

"Bob has been a good pitcher this spring, and I want him on the ball club," said manager Al Lopez. "I think he will help us in certain spots."

Six weeks ago, before spring training started, Lopez had said of the 37-year-old once Rapid Rob ert.

"Well, Bob will have to make the team."

On a club heavy with pitching talent, this sounded like a stiff order for the fading fireballer, a notoriously slow starter.

But Feller was equal to the challenge. He has allowed five earned runs in 17 exhibition innings and stacks up second only to Herb Score in this respect.

"I was concerned about him, just as I would be concerned about anybody his age," Lopez said. "But he has worked hard and he has pitched good ball and I think he will do the job."

Lopez' talk of "certain spots" for Feller indicates he probably will use Bob as he has in the last two seasons. That means mostly day games, more appearances at home than away, and in double headers.

Feller pitched only 83 innings last season and 140 in 1954. In

SPORTS The Record Herald Wed., Apr. 11, 1956 17

1946 when he set the major league strikeout record of 348, he hurled 371 innings.

Last year Bob had a 4.4 record, against 13.3 the year before. Three of his victories were at home.

Cleveland Barons Vie For Ice Trophy

CLEVELAND (P)—The Providence Reds and one of their favorite American Hockey League cousins, the Cleveland Barons, tonight will renew the Calder Cup battles.

The Reds own a 10-4 record over Cleveland, including two decisive triumphs in the first pair of games in the final Calder Cup series. Providence would like to make it four straight and a clean sweep with victories tonight and Friday.

Bosox Display Power In Romp Over Phillies

Pinky Higgins' Crew Clobbers Foe 21-1 In Exhibition Tilt

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS You've got to figure Pinky Higgins as the world's No. 1 pessimist if the skipper of the Boston Red Sox didn't eat his breakfast with a smile this morning.

Who's going to frown when his athletes pound major league pitching for 24 hits—five of them homers—and 21 runs, even in an exhibition game? How's any manager going to hold back a grin when the two big question marks on his pitching staff look just fine?

The Red Sox did all of that Tuesday in a frolicking, three-touchdown romp over the Philadelphia Phillies. The final count was 21-1. Saul Rogovin, an American League castoff, was the victim. He lasted just 1-3 innings, giving up 15 hits—including solo homers by Jim Pappas and Jackie Jensen and Ted Williams' three-run poke. The Red Sox scored seven in the second and eight in the third.

The best news for Higgins, however, was the continued "comeback" of Mel Parnell and Frank Baumann. They represent Boston's southpaw strength on the mound. Parnell, a sad case since 1954, walked four and gave three hits but wasn't in any danger for his five innings. His only lapse was a home run ball to Del Ennis.

A sound Parnell would be money in the bank for the Red Sox. Mel, who will be 34 in June, won 21 for Boston in 1953 and shut out the New York Yankees four times. But he suffered a broken wrist in April 1954, and hasn't been the same since.

Baumann, the bonus rookie who hurt his throwing arm in the service was still a bit wild—walking two and hitting a batter, but fanned two in his one-hit, four-inning chore.

Rain again cut the exhibition schedule—cancelling the Baltimore-Chicago Cubs, St. Louis-Chicago White Sox and Brooklyn-Milwaukee games.

Elston Howard homered and tripled as the New York Yankees swung for 15 hits and defeated Dallas of the Texas League 6-3. Whitey Ford went six innings for the Yanks and was tagged for seven hits and all the runs.

Mickey Mantle made his first starting appearance since re-injuring a ham-string muscle March 28 and got a single in three trips. Manager Casey Stengel says Mick will open the season in center field.

Pinch hits by a pair of second-line, left-handed hitting catchers won the only other games played. Joe Ginsberg delivered a two-run homer for Kansas City in the ninth of Red Mungler to give the A's a 4-2 decision over Pittsburgh. Lou Berberet came through with a two-run single in the ninth to bring Washington from behind in a 9-8 victory over the Cincinnati Redlegs.

Cleveland and the New York Giants were not scheduled. Milwaukee flag hopes dipped with the announcement that Gene Conley, the big "if" for the Braves, won't be ready to pitch for "four or six" weeks. The 6-9 righthander, nursing an inflamed shoulder tendon, was packed off for a two-week workout with Milwaukee's Jacksonville, Fla., farm.

WHS Track Team Downs Wilmington and Lebanon

The WHS track team outran, out-threw, outjumped and generally outclassed the thinclads from Wilmington and Lebanon Tuesday afternoon to clinch the triangular meet by a 17-point margin over second-place Lebanon.

The Lions scored 61 points to 44 for Lebanon and 43 for the home team, Wilmington.

It marked the first time in several years the Wilmington crew had dropped a triangular meet, as well as a very unusual home-field loss for the Clinton County trackman.

Washington C. H. scored its win on the strength of five firsts, six seconds, six thirds and four fourths in the 14 events.

Two of the firsts, went to Bob Hunter, first at the tape in both the 100- and 220-yard dashes. Together with his anchor leg in the half-mile relay, that brought his point total to 11 1/4.

DAN SCHLICHTER with a first in the shot put and second in the discus, earned 8 points for the Lions. Ronnie Kelley scored 6 with seconds in the mile and the half.

Henry Anders took 5 more points with a win in the mile, and the half-mile relay team, Raney Foster, John Emrick, Wayne Rehm and Bob Hunter, scored an additional 5 points with their victory.

Landy Sets Sights On Fast U. S. Race

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP)—John Landy, the fastest miler of all time, hinted today he might break the 4-minute barrier when he visits the United States for two races next month.

The Australian school teacher, who has gone under 4 minutes in four of his last five races, will run in Los Angeles May 5 and in the West Coast Relays in Fresno May 12. His world mark is 3:58.

"If conditions are right, I might even run faster than last Saturday," he said. He was caught in 3:58.6 in that one and complained later that he felt "sluggish."

Senators Booked On Home Diamond

WASHINGTON (AP)—Baseball returns to big league cities today, and—of all things—the Washington Senators lead the way.

Back from the south, the Senators are first to play an exhibition game on home grounds. They meet the Brooklyn Dodgers tonight in Griffith Stadium.

The game points up Washington's troubles. Manager, Chuck Dressen is still trying to piece together a jigsaw of rookies collected after last season's finish in the American League cellar.

Patricia Gabriel Tebbets, youngest of three girls in the Birdie Tebbets family, was named after Gabe Paul, vice president of the Cincinnati Redlegs. Birdie manages Cincinnati.

Dartmouth has been in the NCAA basketball tournament five times. The Crusaders first played in the tourney in 1941.

Federal Scholarship Program Is Urged

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Rev. K. J. Alter, archbishop of Cincinnati, said last night he believes that any federal aid could well be used to set up university and college scholarships like the original GI Bill of Rights.

He told the Medievalist Society, an organization of Roman Catholic laymen, that the scholarships "would relieve the necessity of federal aid for school construction on this level and would promote the national interest by strengthening existing private non-profit colleges and universities."

Drunk Drivers Given The Usual

Many Others Fined In Municipal Court

Among those who were fined by Municipal Court Judge Max G. Dice during the first two sessions of court this week were several out-of-county residents forfeiting their bonds rather than return here and face the charges.

Six of the 15 who faced the court were charged with driving while drunk.

Those fined included several plain drunks, who drew $10 and costs for their offense.

Others fined, and the charges, were:

Earl Thompson, no operator's license, $10 and costs.
John W. Harriott of Dayton, for double parking truck, $5 and costs; Earl Thompson, no muffler, $5 and costs, suspended;

Maynard Lechower, driving while drunk, $200 and costs, 10 days in jail and suspended from driving for one year;

Isaac Smith Stewart, driving while drunk, $200 and costs, 10 days in jail and suspended for one year, but right to drive to and from work allowed and he also drew $25 and costs for reckless operation;

James Cefals, Pittsburgh $15 and costs for passing on a yellow line, Frederick Gaines of Fairborn, $200 and costs, 10 days in jail and suspended from driving for year for driving while drunk;

Ted Orihood, $200 and cost, 10 days in jail and suspended from driving for a year, for driving while drunk but right to drive to and from work granted;

Lorraine Francis Harvey, driving while drunk, $200 and costs, 10 days in jail and suspended from driving for one year;

No Troop Call Seen

less the danger grows considerably worse.

Their hope that it will not do so is based on an estimate here that neither Israel nor Egypt wants to become involved in a war now.

Monday's White House statement declared that the United States under the U.N. charter "will observe its commitments within constitutional means to oppose any aggression" in the Middle East.

The statement made no specific reference to a 1950 declaration by the United States, Britain and France. In it, the three countries pledged jointly to maintain an arms balance between Israel and the Arab states and to resist aggression by either.

It now appears that the administration has decided its best chance for decisive action, if ever that has to be taken with U. S. forces, lies in the U. N.

There are reported to be several reasons for this:

FIRST IT would put up to the U. N. the problem of determining which side was the aggressor.

Second, Russia has achieved considerable influence in the Middle East. As a U. N. member, Russia would automatically be brought into discussions on any crisis in Palestine.

Third, U. S. policy makers regard France as so heavily committed in a military sense in North Africa that they do not see a possibility of much effective French cooperation if it comes to a showdown in Palestine.

Selden Grange Charter Draped

Interesting Session Held Tuesday Night

The regular meeting of Selden Grange Tuesday night included the draping of the charter as a memorial to Frank M. Rothrock, who died recently.

Those taking part in this impressive ceremony were chaplain, Mrs. Dora Mark, Ceres, Mrs. Anna Smith, lady assistant, Mrs. Lorene Sollars, assistant steward, Ottis Smith.

Mack McDonald sang "In The Garden" for the hymn, and Mrs. Jo Ann Buck played the piano march and accompaniment.

The Grange voted to observe Rural Life Sunday on May 6 by attending the worship service at White Oak Grove Methodist Church. Sunday School is at 10 A. M. and worship service at 11 A. M. Every member of Selden Grange was urged to attend one or both of these services on that day.

The master announced the Pomona meeting to be held Thursday at 8 P. M. in the Farm Bureau auditorium. He said a Pomona attendance contest was in effect and requested a good attendance from Selden Grange.

Selden members were asked to note that, beginning with the May meeting and extending through the summer, meetings will begin at 8 P. M. instead of 7:30 P. M.

The next blood bank for Fayette County was announced for April 18. The master asked that any who could qualify to make a special effort to donate blood this time.

THE LECTURE program, in charge of Mrs. Dorothy McDonald, had safety as its theme. It began with a roll-call of the women in which they answered by giving some safety suggestion. A reading "Famous Last Words," by Kenneth Bush, a poem, "Safety First," by Marjorie Case, and a humorous skit, "Little Mary Wanted to Play Safe," by Lorene Sollars and Mary Ann Morter, formed the program.

The Juvenile Grange, under the leadership of Mrs. Helen June Wade and Mrs. Frances Perrill, worked on the opening and closing ceremonies of the juvenile ritual, and on making scrap-books for the hospital.

At the close of the subordinate meeting, two representatives of the Kewanee Oil Company were present and explained their plans for signing up most of Fayette County on oil lease agreements.

Refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Buck, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Marting, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Sam Marting, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Carleton Belt, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Nisley, Mr. Will Braun, Mr. Frank Collopy, and Mrs. Mildred Barker.

session of the Wayne Progressive Farmers in the Township Hall. For his top score in the club's pest hunt, started last February, Curt won a fishing rod and reel.

Runner-up Donnie Bonham was awarded a baseball and bat.

A feature of the meeting was a talk by Phil Grover, associate county agent. Grover told the members that there was a possibility that an out-of-county 4-H livestock tour might be scheduled and explained to the boys and girls the new rules governing Junior Fair entries.

The business session was led by the vice president, Barbara Knisley. Margaret Johnson led the 4-H pledge and gave the treasurer's report and Nancy McFadden read the secretary's report.

The next meeting will be May 8 at Wayne Hall.

Harold C. Jones, one of the pioneer breeders of registered Landrace hogs in Fayette County announced today that he was going to give a pig to some 4-H boy or girl for a project.

Jones brought his foundation stock to his farm in Marion Township on the Waterloo-Mt. Sterling pike, Route 277, last June and now has 12 gilts, a boar and 92 pigs from nine gilts.

He is one of the few breeders of this relatively new type of hog in these parts. So new, in fact, that the first public sale east of Indiana is to be held at the Fair ground here next Saturday night by the Ohio Landrace Breeders Association.

Jones said that the boy or girl who will get the pig for a project has not yet been selected, but would be soon with the cooperation of the Extension Service. If everything goes according to plan, the pig probably will be shown at the Fair here next summer.

No Troop Call Seen

less the gangster grows considerably worse.

Their hope that it will not do so is based on an estimate here that neither Israel nor Egypt wants to become involved in a war now.

Monday's White House statement declared that the United States under the U.N. charter "will observe its commitments within constitutional means to oppose any aggression" in the Middle East.

The statement made no specific reference to a 1950 declaration by the United States, Britain and France. In it, the three countries pledged jointly to maintain an arms balance between Israel and the Arab states and to resist aggression by either.

It now appears that the administration has decided its best chance for decisive action, if ever that has to be taken with U. S. forces, lies in the U. N.

There are reported to be several reasons for this:

FIRST, IT would put up to the U. N. the problem of determining which side was the aggressor.

Second, Russia has achieved considerable influence in the Middle East. As a U. N. member, Russia would automatically be brought into discussions on any crisis in Palestine.

Third, U. S. policy makers regard France as so heavily committed in a military sense in North Africa that they do not see a possibility of much effective French cooperation if it comes to a showdown in Palestine.

Selden Grange Charter Draped

Interesting Session
Held Tuesday Night

The regular meeting of Selden Grange Tuesday night included the draping of the charter as a memorial to Frank M. Rothrock, who died recently.

Those taking part in this impressive ceremony were chaplain, Mrs. Dora Mark; Ceres, Mrs. Anna Smith; lady assistant, Mrs. Lorene Sollars; assistant steward, Ottie Smith.

Mack McDonald sang "In The Garden" for the hymn, and Mrs. Jo Ann Buck played the piano march and accompaniment.

The Grange voted to observe Rural Life Sunday on May 6 by attending the worship service at White Oak Grove Methodist Church. Sunday School is at 10 A. M. and worship service at 11 A. M. Every member of Selden Grange was urged to attend one or both of these services on that day.

The master announced the Pomona meeting to be held Thursday at 8 P. M. in the Farm Bureau auditorium. He said a Pomona attendance contest was in effect and requested a good attendance from Selden Grange.

Selden members were asked to note that, beginning with the May meeting and extending through the summer, meetings will begin at 8 P. M. instead of 7:30 P. M.

The next blood bank for Fayette County was announced for April 18. The master asked that any who could qualify to make a special effort to donate blood this time.

THE LECTURE program, in charge of Mrs. Dorothy McDonald, had safety as its theme. It began with a roll-call of the women in which they answered by giving some safety suggestion. A reading "Famous Last Words," by Kenneth Bush; a poem, "Safety First," by Marjorie Case; and a humorous skit, "Little Mary Wanted to Play Safe," by Lorene Sollars and Mary Ann Morter, formed the program.

The Juvenile Grange, under the leadership of Mrs. Helen June Wadde and Mrs. Frances Perrill, worked on the opening and closing ceremonies of the juvenile ritual, and on making scrap-books for the hospital.

At the close of the subordinate meeting, two representatives of the Kewanee Oil Company were present and explained their plans for signing up most of Fayette County on oil lease agreements.

Refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Buck, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Marting, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Sam Marting, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Carleton Belt, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Nisley, Mr. Will Braun, Mr. Frank Collopy, Mr. and Mrs. Milford Barker.

session of the Wayne Progressive Farmers in the Township Hall. For his top score in the club's pest hunt, started last February, Curt won a fishing rod and reel.

Runner-up Donnie Bonham was awarded a baseball and bat.

A feature of the meeting was a talk by Phil Grover, associate county agent. Grover told the members that there was a possibility that an out-of-county 4-H livestock tour might be scheduled and explained to the boys and girls the new rules governing Junior Fair entries.

The business session was led by the vice president, Barbara Knisley. Margaret Johnson led the 4-H pledge and gave the treasurer's report and Nancy McFadden read the secretary's report.

The next meeting will be May 8 at Wayne Hall.
